CAMPBELL IS HOPING TO RACE AGAIN

Driver to Remain at Daytona; Seeks New Record If Beach Favorable

MARK OF 276.816 SET YESTERDAY

Daytona Beach, Fla., March 8.—Sir Malcolm Campbell, discontented over what he considered a poor showing yesterday when he set a new world land speed record of 276.816 miles an hour, decided today to remain here until the latter part of March in the hope the flawless beach he seeks will emerge from one of the full moon tides about March 20.

He has been hoping to do 300 miles an hour.

In other years, the moment he fractured the straightaway, running start standards that he alone has been able to challenge since the death of Major Segrave, he has packed up and immediately put the monster Bluebird in a crate, and started straight back for England. This time it is different.

He went out on Daytona's sands yesterday and lifted his mark from 272.102 to 276.816. He said yesterday, as late as 1 p.m. that the beach was impossible, rough and lumpy, and could not possibly sustain the speed he sought, yet three hours later he had Bluebird on the sands, breaking his old record.

SHORT OF DENIED SPEED

It was far short of the goal he had set for himself and the seven-ton car, but was 4,708 miles an hour swifter than the mark he set here two years ago.

The result left him happy, but slightly shaken by one narrow escape he had shortly after thundering through the measured mile on the

INQUIRY COUNSEL IS PAID $32,581

Ottawa, March 8.—Norman Somerville, counsel for the parliamentary committee on man buying and for the royal commission which succeeded it, was paid $32,581 for 196 days' labor, the House of Commons was told by Hon. R. B. Hanson, Minister of Trade and Commerce, Mr. Somerville worked 124 days in public sessions and seventy-two days interviewing witnesses, auditors, investigators and others in pursuit of evidence.

His remuneration was $150 a day, with a daily expense account of $15.

Blood Transfusion For Alice McHenry

Fall River, Mass., March 8.—A blood transfusion was being considered today for Alice Jane McHenry—not as an emergency measure, attending physicians pointed out, but to alleviate an anemic condition.

It has been under consideration for several days and merely would supplement a progress described as "most encouraging," since the ten-year-old Omaha, Nebraska, girl underwent an operation for diaphragmatic rupture.

Penalty Plan of New Bill Protested

Mr. King and Other Liberals Oppose Prescribing of Fines and Jail By Proposed Unemployment Insurance Board; Government Reconsiders

Ottawa, March 8.—A clause in the government's Unemployment Insurance Bill which would empower the proposed insurance commission to prescribe penalties for infraction of its regulations drew vigorous objection from Mr. Hon. W. L. Mackenzie King, Liberal leader, in the House of Commons yesterday. Declaring it would delegate the power of Parliament to an irresponsible body, and place the liberty of Canadian citizens in jeopardy, Mr. King induced Sir George Perley, Acting Prime Minister, to hold the clause over for further consideration.

The House of Commons made progress yesterday in passing the first sections of the bill remaining through the committee stage. To-day it was scheduled to return to the task and possibly take up the Eight-hour Day Bill.

Mr. King argued no commission should have power to prescribe a jail

Vancouver, March 8.—A further remand till March 16 was ordered today in the case of John Cameron, former Vancouver police chief, Joe O'Brien, Joe Alvarez, Wally Cole and Eugene Valenz, charged with conspiring to cause public mischief. Cameron is still confined to the General Hospital with injuries suffered early in January.

FUND WIDENED

Ottawa, March 8.—Canadians in Great Britain and the United States are being invited to contribute to the King George Silver Jubilee Cancer Fund for Canada, it was revealed today in a communique from the management of the fund here.

The statement said Hon. W. D. Herridge, Canadian minister to the United States, had brought the fund to the attention of all Canadian clubs and societies in the United States. Hon. G. Howard Ferguson, Canadian High Commissioner to the United Kingdom, has taken steps in that country.

MORE FOREST FUNDS NEEDED

B.C. Spends One-half Cent An Acre on Protection, U.S. Seven Cents

British Columbia should spend from $1,000,000 to $1,500,000 a year to give reasonably fair protection to her forests, C. D. Orchard, head of the forest protection service, told the forestry committee of the B.C. Legislature this morning.

Average expenditure in the last ten years has totaled $775,000 including public and private funds.

Mr. Orchard said United States experts had calculated the cost of proper protection in the northwest at 10 cents an acre. British Columbia was spending only 1/2 cent an acre, while in Washington 7 cents an acre was spent.

"You can see our problem resolves itself into one of available funds," he declared. "This also explains why we can open only one-half of our established lookouts this year, why our trails are blocked, telephone lines in disrepair and tools not in shape."

Mr. Orchard declared a programme of public education would be one of the most effective ways of carrying on forest protection work. This would show actual results in dollars and cents through the reduction in losses.

He pointed out that forest protection has actually cost the province nothing, since the revenue accruing directly to the province from the forests by far offset the expenditures that were made.

THOS. WALKER PASSES AWAY

Prominent in Business and As Fruit Grower; Acted As Agent-General in London

Thomas Walker, president of the Hater Machine Company, for one year acting agent-general for B.C. in London, and past president of the Gordon Head Fruitgrowers' Association and of the Victoria Liberal Association, died at his residence, San Juan Avenue, Gordon Head, at 11.15 o'clock Thursday evening. He suffered a heart condition and had not been active around the city since last year.

Mr. Walker had an active career in Victoria business and public affairs during his forty-two years residence in this city. He was born at Woolley, Herefordshire, England, seventy years ago. He learned the tailoring trade at Stroud, Gloucestershire. In 1889 he crossed the Atlantic for the new world, migrating first to Minnesota, and then continuing west to Butte and Philadelphia, Montana, where he opened a tailoring business in 1890.

Bennett To Be In House Next Week

Premier Regains Strength, But Doctors Advise Full Rest

Ottawa, March 8.—Condition of Prime Minister E. B. Bennett, ill for twelve days with an inflammation of the respiratory tract, today was reported considerably improved, but doctors ordered him to remain away from the House of Commons until the beginning of next week.

A statement given out late yesterday by Mr. Hon. Sir George Perley, acting government leader, was the first official bulletin on Mr. Bennett's illness. It said:

"The Prime Minister's illness began on Sunday, February 24, with an acute respiratory tract infection. This followed a very busy week. He had been improving daily until this morning, when he suffered a setback. His general condition is improved this afternoon, but he will require further rest."

It is understood Mr. Bennett's medical advisers have urged him to take a long rest at some health resort as soon as he is sufficiently recovered to travel. He had planned to return to the House of Commons yesterday.

GREAT JAPANESE BUDGET VOTED

Tokio, March 8.—The House of Representatives enacted the 1935-36 budget today, giving final approval to the demands of Japan's army and navy leaders for the largest military appropriations in the empire's history.

An unopposed standing vote recorded the peers as overwhelmingly in favor of the bill, which allocates 67 per cent of the appropriations for the current fiscal year to the army and navy. The House of Representatives approved the measure February 14.

The budget totals 2,310,000,000 yen (about $600,000,000). Of that sum the army will receive 600,000,000 yen (about $143,000,000) and the navy 500,000,000 yen (about $124,000,000).

MUSIC PROTEST

London, March 8.—One hundred and sixty members of the House of Commons have signed a protest against the fact the programme for the summer season of opera at Covent Garden contains not a single British work, or a leading British performer.

Particular objection is taken in view of the fact this is the year of the King's Silver Jubilee.

STUDIOS TALK OF BIG MOVE

Movie Producers Discuss Migration From California If Heavy Taxes Imposed

Hollywood, Cal., March 8.—An echo hidden in the sleeve of Hollywood's movie chieftains, dropped out today. It brought added weight to their threat to take the film industry out of California rather than submit to increased taxation, proposed in bills pending before the state legislature.

A definite plan by which the colossal plan might be accomplished was disclosed today. It embraced two major premises:

1. Removal of the huge stores of equipment during a two-year period, without appreciably interrupting the production schedules of any major studio.
2. Sacrifice of real estate properties, on which the studios are situated, or allowing them to revert to the state for taxes.

Robert Fairbanks, general manager of United Studios, said such a plan had been in process of formulation for some time.

BULGARIA'S ARMY READY

All Soldiers on Leave Rejoin Regiments as Greeks Fight

Sofia, Bulgaria, March 8.—All Bulgarian soldiers and officers on winter furlough to-day were ordered to report back to their regiments.

The soldiers had been given furloughs for reasons of economy. An official communique issued at the same time as the order emphasized it is inaccurate to speak of Bulgaria's calling any "class" to the colors since, according to the post-war peace treaties, Bulgaria has no compulsory military service and cannot recruit by classes.

The present action, the communique said, means simply that garrisons depleted by the departure of troops for border service are being restored to their full strength.

Provincial Government Turns Down Request For $50,000 Appropriation

The appeal made by Victoria and Vancouver advocates of tourist trade for a grant of $50,000 for publicity to stimulate the travel industry of British Columbia, has been rejected by the provincial government according to word received today from George I. Warren, Victoria and Island Publicity commissioner.

The information was received by Mr. Warren over the long distance telephone from T. S. Dixon, president of the Vancouver Board of Trade. Mr. Dixon stated he had received the following letter signed by Premier Pattullo:

"I am sorry that the government is not able to accede to requests of your worthy delegation for a grant of $50,000 for tourist advertising this year. I am also sorry that these representations were not made some time before the budget was closed."

"I feel sure that a considerable number of members would object to the granting of this sum of money while there are so many demands in the outlying districts which it is impossible to meet. Whether they would succumb to argument or not the fact is that we have been approached for assistance in various directions since the budget was closed and we have had to refuse these applications on the ground that we could not reopen the budget at this time. I wish to reassure you of the appreciation by the government of the importance of the tourist industry and our desire to be of assistance."

"I would like to suggest to you that next year you make your representations to the government some time prior to the opening of the Legislature."

ATHENS GOVERNMENT SAYS INTERCEPTED MESSAGES INDICATE INSURGENTS ABOUT TO SURRENDER

VENIZELOS TO-DAY REPORTED WOUNDED

Athens, March 8.—Former Premier Eleutherios Venizelos was reported wounded to-day.

The report came from Colon. A message intercepted from a Yugoslav steamer, it said, described the asserted leader of the Greek revolt as seriously wounded and being taken to Alexandria, Egypt.

Government planes bombed the Venizelos house on the island of Crete earlier in the week, and also the cruiser Averoff, flagship of the little rebel "fleet."

PARIS, MARCH 8.—A PRESS DISPATCH FROM ATHENS TO-DAY SAID GREEK REBELS BOMBED THE CITY OF SALONIKA, ADVANCING AFTER SHARP FIGHTING IN WHICH MANY WERE KILLED AND WOUNDED.

Another dispatch said police were rounding up all known Communists in Athens and other cities as a precautionary measure.

LOYAL TROOPS ADVANCE
Athens, March 8.—Loyal troops began an offensive from the north against rebels in Macedonia to-day shortly after the Greek government claimed to have intercepted messages which indicated the insurgents were about ready to surrender.

A wireless message, purporting to have been sent by General Demetrios Karamanlis, leader of the rebel forces, was claimed to say, "We are completely lost."

It was said to be addressed to rebel chieftains in other sectors.

General Karamanlis, commanding the division in the north, sent his troops plunging down across snow-covered fields in the wake of bombing planes that roared across the rebel position to harass them with aerial bombs and machine gun fire.

Just before Karamanlis launched his drive, General George Kontoulis, in command of the first force in the field, hurled twelve planes at the rebels' Macedonian lines.

SPILT IN REBELS' RANK
A revolt within the revolt was reported as advisers were received of internal trouble spreading among the ranks. The soldiers, it was reported, were demanding arrangement whereby the command be passed to non-commissioned officers.

General Kontoulis, who dropped his war portfolio to direct the government's action, was handicapped by heavy weather and faced further difficulties in the river sector because the stream, swollen by rains and melting snow, overflowed its banks and flooded entire districts.

FLEET'S ACTIVITY
Sole news of the operations of the rebel fleet indicated it might be preparing to repulse as a result of the Turkish embargo on Greek ships placed at the request of the Athens government. As report from Istanbul said the rebel ship Averoff had stopped the Turkish steamer Konia, which was en route to Smyrna, and conducted it to Mytilene.

MANY LEAVE ATHENS
Residents of Athens, alarmed at the prospect of a rebel bombardment of Greece's ancient capital, fled to-day to the comparative safety of outlying districts.

Every available piece of artillery was mounted on the ramparts of Piraeus, the city's seaport, to rebel the expected attack.

Apprehension approaching terror gripped the populace despite the government's assurances there was "nothing to be feared."

The exodus from the city started at dawn, families streaming toward the suburbs carrying basket lunches. Anxiety increased with daylight, since lightness beams along the entire seaboard were extinguished during the night as a precaution against a naval assault.

The Athenians' concern was occasioned by reports the Admiral Demetrios, commanding the little insurgent fleet, had delivered an ultimatum to the city.

GYMNASIUM TO BE ERECTED

Department of Education Will Assist in Building Duncan School Structure

Special to The Times
Duncan, March 8.—Trustee C. T. Smythe presided over the monthly meeting of the Duncan Consolidated School Board on Tuesday evening, when action was taken on the proposed gymnasium.
Trustee Maitland reported on the meeting of the gymnasium committee and stated that the department of education had agreed to assist in the erection of a building for this purpose, provided the board would agree to assume responsibility for the maintenance of such building when completed. The building will be erected on school grounds. Drafts and plans for the building were shown and the committee is in favor of trying to raise the sum of $4,000 by public subscription. The board passed a resolution to the effect that they approved of the plans submitted and agreed to accept the building as their charge when completed. The amendment to the Duncan and North Cowichan school agreement of 1922 was endorsed.

The supplies and repairs committee reported that the fire alarm system in the elementary school had been altered to comply with the request of the fire marshal.

C. H. DOUGLAS TO VISIT ALBERTA

Edmonton, March 8.—Assurance of radio and press facilities, and provincial obstruction of any efforts to amend the British North America Act are included in the terms which Mayor C. H. Douglas, British economist and social credit authority, laid down for his impending study of Alberta's affairs. It was disclosed yesterday when Premier R. G. Reid's correspondence with him was tabled in the Legislature.
In reply, Premier Reid promised press and radio facilities "to the extent that we have any control over them," and said he did not know of any B.N.A. Act changes likely to be made in the near future.
Douglas cannot arrive here before May 15, he said. He is being paid a two-year contract fee of $5,000, plus $2,000 for each day in Alberta not exceeding three weeks.

TELLS STORY OF CHURCHES

Brian Cook Traces History Through Centuries of Typical English Church

"The parish churches of England were not built merely as museums, but for and with a wonderful faith. They have seen many vicissitudes. At present their congregations are small; but I hope and you hope that the time will come when we shall see them full, when they will do their part to revive the peace and prosperity of the world."

These were the concluding words spoken yesterday evening by Brian Cook, in the last of his series of lectures delivered under the auspices of the National Council of Education, at the Victoria Memorial Hall on the subject of "The Parish Churches of England."

Church buildings in England date from the 12th century. With the reformation, he said, the construction of churches came to an end, except for a few rare cases, such as the church in the City of London, built by Henry after the great fire of 1666.

Mr. Cook brought the characteristics of the various periods in English church architecture before his audience with a new vividness by tracing the history of a typical village church.

He showed first how this architecture fell into five broad divisions. First the Saxon, in the period between the coming of St. Augustine and the arrival of William the Conqueror; then the Norman, which the Conqueror imported; next the Early English, the first form of Gothic, which began about 1200; and following it the Decorated and the Perpendicular.

In the typical little village the first church was probably built by the Roman legionaries, about 500. It was small and of Byzantine type, with a round apse and a mosaic floor. After the coming of St. Augustine in 597, first of all the priests would come to the little village, and preach from the steps of a cross, with his altar erected on a raised platform. Later he decided that the English climate was not always good enough, and built a little shed over his altar, calling it a chapel or chantry. Soon the congregation had grown so large that he built a roof over their heads, joining it to the chapel. This was the first church.

These little Saxon churches were rough and simple, with only two or three windows, because there was no glass to keep out the wind and the rain. There were no windows on the north side at all, in case the heathen devil of the Saxons should return. There was straw on the floor for the congregation to kneel upon.
The Normans were builders; they arrived in 1066, they knocked down the little village's Saxon church, and made a larger one in the shape of a cross, with transepts on either side of the junction of chancel and nave, and with a tower at the latter end. It was a severe, heavily-built little church, with only such decoration as could be roughed out with an axe, and with round arches.

Sometime about 1200, the villagers decided they would have bells like other churches had. They cast them and hung them in the tower, but they were too heavy, and the tower fell, crushing the chancel. So a new chancel was built, in a new style made possible by the invention of the pointed arch and the flying buttress. The masonry was slimmer and taller, and there were more windows, narrow lancet windows.

Next the villagers built a tower at the west end, separated a few feet from the church, so as not to disturb the services. When it was completed, it was joined on to the nave.

MEANWHILE the congregation had grown, and an aisle was built on, on the south side, with an arcade of columns between it and the nave. This was about 1300. This new style was in the new, decorated style of architecture, with stone tracery in the windows.

In 1349 the Black Death swept the country, and killed off the builders; some of the details of the carvings were left unfinished. The Wars of the Roses came immediately afterwards, and the north aisle was not added until about 1500. By then the art of stained glass had been developed, so the north aisle became a mere framework of stone to hold the glass, which was sent in tall perpendicular strips. All the stone of the new building had a feeling of uplift, of aspiration.

CLERGYMEN ADDED
Then the congregation found that their church was too wide for its height, so they added another story above the nave, a clerestory made up of two rows of perpendicular windows. This made the tower too short, so a long pointed steeple was added.

The steeple of the church was decorated with carved and beautiful gilded carvings; the walls were painted with pictures of the travels of purgatory, and the pews were carved with little figures of men and women. The church was thus when the Reformation came; paintings and gilding were obliterated with whitewash by the reformers; the beautiful stained glass was torn down; the carved screen between the nave and chancel was destroyed.

In 1835 the Gothic revival hit England, and people began to remove the simple church decorations of the post-Reformation—the Stewart period, and replace them with atrocious imitations of the original. To-day church opinion is becoming more balanced, said Mr. Cook, and an effort was being made to restore the churches to their full beauty.

PAINTS TYPICAL CHURCH
With a long series of slides, the lecturer built up an imaginary church interior of the sixteenth century, compounding it of details, some of which he said had escaped in almost every church. He showed what a typical English church of 1600 might have looked like from the lychnae outside to the painted ceiling, and from the priest's room above the porch to the brass tablets in the floor.

Mr. Cook also showed many slides of English churches, explaining that owing to the local workmanship which has gone into additions and renovations, no two are alike.
A vote of thanks to Mr. Cook was moved at the conclusion of the lecture by J. C. McKeith, architect of the Victoria Memorial Hall, who presided at the meeting. Charles Deane-Bradley acted as chairman.

REGULATION OF STORES PLANNED
Lady Smith, March 8.—By-law regulating second-hand stores in the city was read and considered in committee at Wednesday evening's meeting of the City Council. The by-law will be finally dealt with at the next meeting.

Some years ago a by-law of the same nature was passed, but failure to register rendered it inoperative. The recent proposal of the Board of Trade that the city should approach the shareholders of Arcady, the second-hand store near the town, with a view to procuring a lease of the property in connection with the plans for making the city environs more attractive for tourists, was discussed. Arrangements will be made to have the matter discussed with the owners of Arcady.

Fast driving on First Avenue when the street was closed on Saturday night is becoming a menace to safety. The police will be called to impose strictures on offenders.

Quintilian yesterday submitted a resolution dealing with relief costs for education. The Fraser Valley municipality pointed out that the provision of relief percentages by cities and organized districts was making for inevitable bankruptcy of municipal areas, and favored the idea of the federal government taking over all relief costs to take care of the situation. The council endorsed the resolution.

Dr. Helen O. Stewart of the public library commission, wrote notifying the council that the commission had decided to hold a book exhibition of the benefits of a regional public library for the island. The response from Lady Smith had proved extremely gratifying, and it was suggested that the council consider the advisability of appointing a customs representative for the port of Ladysmith.

A lone offer was considered for the wrecking of the Portland Hotel, which the council recently decided was becoming unsightly. The tender was not considered satisfactory and was refused. It was suggested that the board of works committee might undertake the job, but the matter was finally left over.

Bills Advanced By the Senate

Ottawa, March 8.—Four measures went through first reading in the Senate yesterday. The bills are those amending the Farmers' Creditors Arrangement Act and the Canadian Farm Loan Act, dealing with the payment of additions for the Canadian National Railways and extension of the government's tax agreement with the city of Ottawa.

The main change in the Farmers' Creditors Arrangement Act extends from sixty to ninety days the stay of court proceedings against a farmer who has submitted bona fide proposals of arrangements with creditors to the official receiver.

Provincial boards are abolished under the amendments to the Canadian Farm Loan Act, which also create a fund of $50,000,000 for advancement by the board. Operations of the act are extended to Ontario, Saskatchewan and Prince Edward Island.

Clarkson and Company, Toronto, are to replace Truett and Company as auditors for the Canadian National Railways under the railway bill.

The bill affecting the city of Ottawa extends for one year the act under which the city government pays the city $100,000 annually in lieu of taxes.

Lady Smith, March 8.—By-law regulating second-hand stores in the city was read and considered in committee at Wednesday evening's meeting of the City Council. The by-law will be finally dealt with at the next meeting.

Some years ago a by-law of the same nature was passed, but failure to register rendered it inoperative. The recent proposal of the Board of Trade that the city should approach the shareholders of Arcady, the second-hand store near the town, with a view to procuring a lease of the property in connection with the plans for making the city environs more attractive for tourists, was discussed. Arrangements will be made to have the matter discussed with the owners of Arcady.

Fast driving on First Avenue when the street was closed on Saturday night is becoming a menace to safety. The police will be called to impose strictures on offenders.

Quintilian yesterday submitted a resolution dealing with relief costs for education. The Fraser Valley municipality pointed out that the provision of relief percentages by cities and organized districts was making for inevitable bankruptcy of municipal areas, and favored the idea of the federal government taking over all relief costs to take care of the situation. The council endorsed the resolution.

Dr. Helen O. Stewart of the public library commission, wrote notifying the council that the commission had decided to hold a book exhibition of the benefits of a regional public library for the island. The response from Lady Smith had proved extremely gratifying, and it was suggested that the council consider the advisability of appointing a customs representative for the port of Ladysmith.

A lone offer was considered for the wrecking of the Portland Hotel, which the council recently decided was becoming unsightly. The tender was not considered satisfactory and was refused. It was suggested that the board of works committee might undertake the job, but the matter was finally left over.

B.C. OPINIONS OF U.S. GIVEN

With Spirit of Admiration Goes Feeling of Mistrust, Prof. H. F. Angus Says

With a general spirit of sincere admiration and friendliness for the United States, many British Columbians also harbor a feeling of mistrust, a fear of Americanization, of peaceful penetration and inevitable contamination with the undesirable features of that country.

Speaking before the University Extension Society at Victoria College yesterday evening, Prof. H. F. Angus, of the University of British Columbia, pointed out that feature of provincial life in an address on Canadian opinion on the United States and its effects on Canadian-American relations.

His address revealed some of his findings in a sociological survey of Canadian-American relations undertaken by himself and Prof. F. H. Soward in British Columbia for the Carnegie Endowment for International Peace.

While British Columbians were inclined to derive a certain malicious satisfaction for minor difficulties of the United States, they felt that they were not many of them. But one does find that people who are normally friendly become antagonistic when certain issues are under discussion.

ROUSE ANTAGONISM
"Probably moral and social questions are as likely to arouse antagonism as are international disputes over boundaries, or public questions, such as war debts. The reason is that social differences give rise to a fear of contamination. Often this fear is absurd because of the triviality of the differences, or because universal tendencies to which we are practically certain to succumb sooner or later, are more pronounced in the United States than in Canada."

"There may be a sphere in which a defensive attitude is more justifiable and then an interesting question arises: is it better to concede everything which can safely be conceded and limit the struggle to what are deemed essentials, or should popular prejudice be maintained as a sort of defensive position? This is somewhat analogous to the not infrequent preference of men who pose as advanced, or emancipated, that their women-folk should be god-fearing."

The lecturer explained that when he agreed to give the lecture, he anticipated that his studies would be completed and that he could speak of the work which had been done in other parts of Canada. He had been obliged to confine himself to his own observations in British Columbia, and as even that part of the study was still in a flexible state, he would welcome any information which his audience could give him either as to their own opinions and attitudes, or as to those which they had reason to believe to be widespread in the community.

IMPORTANCE OF EDUCATION
"On the other hand," he continued, "education, whether in the schools or in the home, is exceptionally important. We may expect in the future a more self-contained community of education and many of our judgments are likely to take the form of selections of opportunity or admissions of inferiority," the lecturer said. "The former tendency is very marked in connection with such questions of morality, crime, criminal procedure, law and order, banking and sportsmanship. Perhaps it stops just short of Phariseism. Yet, curiously enough, the most bitter criticism may be made on these topics by people who would without hesitation rank the United States very high among civilized nations, and who might even be violently annoyed if an English visitor gave expression to the same criticism," he said.

"Perhaps this is because of a survival of colonialism, which leads us to expect English visitors to be on their good behavior, or perhaps it is because we feel that from their standpoint we are vulnerable to much the same type of criticism as we direct against Americans. This latter reason might indicate the growth of a North American outlook."

POSSIBILITY OF BIAS
"It is peculiarly difficult to study attitudes. People are not naturally frank on such a subject and even if they want to be frank they may not be good at self-analysis. Inevitably, the question creeps in, 'what should my attitude be?' and the equally disturbing question, 'What attitude is it in my interest to express?' Therefore attitudes must be inferred from behavior and from answers to specific questions. Evidence seems to point to the existence of a definitely envious or jealous attitude. It is quite consistent with the belief in superiority. In fact, it arises naturally from a belief that superiority of deserts is coupled with inferiority in economic achievement, that is, with a smaller per capita real income."

"But for all that," he continued, "the dominant attitude is friendly. One must not look for people who are definitely unfriendly, for people who are not many of them. But one does find that people who are normally friendly become antagonistic when certain issues are under discussion."

"There are more ways of looking at a budget than there are flies on a dog's back."

"If we have to wait for our refunding scheme until the bondholders agree, the widows and orphans who hold the securities will be grandmothers and grandfathers."

"The only good feature of the budget is it shows the utter hopelessness of trying to finance government under the conditions existing to-day."

"My expression 'hoo-mall-mall' is the most effective way of saying 'kid you'."

Thomas Uphill proposed that Dr. Allen Harris, with his scientific knowledge, should make all stockpings for women, out of wood that would not run.

"I sympathize with the Minister of Finance. I don't think anyone could do better under the capitalist system. But he reminds me of my grandmother trying to cover up the children with a blanket that was too small."

"The tourist leaves a golden trail. Every tourist dollar is a brand new dollar."—Mr. Wimmer.

With his famous red tie, ex-Mayor Taylor heard present Mayor McGeer tell the House what he thought of things.

Some McGeerisms: "This budget reminds me of the country doctor who, unable to diagnose a case, said: 'I can't tell you what's the matter, but I can give you something to cause a dose of fits, and I'm hell on fits.'"

"You are simply taking $6,000,000 a year as a hypodermic in a credit system that is already dead."

"This budget is simply 'hoo-mall-mall' which is a relation of 'hoo-mall-mall' and the surplus is straight baloney."

"There are more ways of looking at a budget than there are flies on a dog's back."

THOS. WALKER PASSES AWAY

wood Road in full bloom at that time of the year so impressed him that he determined if he ever made another move it should be to Victoria.

The decision for that next move came a year later, when the panic of 1893 made things so quiet in the tailoring business in Philadelphia, that he packed his grip and headed west to Victoria. Upon his arrival here he took a job with the Canadian customs service, but soon entered business for himself. For six years he carried on a tailoring trade, first in the old Shakespeare Building at View and Broad Streets, and later on Tron Avenue.

While in the tailoring business he came to know M. B. Thomson, and, joining Turner, Beaton and Company in December, 1901, he organized the Big Horn factory with all-white linen and other clothing. This factory was opened here on June 2, 1902, and for years was the largest of its kind west of Toronto.

BUYS MACHINE WORKS

Mr. Walker remained with the Big Horn factory as manager for fifteen years, until during the war he bought out the Rafer Machine Company's plant and business on Store Street.

The small fruit possibilities of the South Peninsula appealed to Mr. Walker's imagination with the result that he became the possessor of one of the finest strawberry ranches in the Gordon Head district. He took a very real interest in the development of the fruit industry of Gordon Head. He used his organizing talents constructively in gathering all the fruit growers in the district into the Gordon Head Fruit Growers' Association and the fruit growers returned the compliment by electing him, although a city man running a factory, as their president.

FILLS AGENT-GENERAL'S POST

Mr. Walker found time for other activities. A couple of years after the war he took a trip to England. While he was there Hon. F. C. Wade, B.C. Agent-General, became ill and had to leave his office for a term. Premier John Oliver appointed Mr. Walker acting Agent-General for B.C. in London and the Victoria remained in England until 1922 to fill that important office.

Upon his return to Victoria he resumed his former business and other associations. He was very prominent in the Rotary Club and for years one of the features of the summer for Victoria Rotarians and Rotariennes has been the visit of the club to Tom Walker's Gordon Head farm and an old-fashioned strawberry feed.

Almost from the day of his arrival in Victoria, Mr. Walker was interested in politics. He was one of the old-time city Liberals and was a past president of the Victoria Liberal Association. For years he was a member of the executive board of the Affiliated Friendly Societies and served as treasurer of the Victoria branch of the Sante Mortuary with interest in Royal Oak Burial Park.

sence of Bulgarian troops along the Greek frontier.

Bulgaria yesterday protested to the League that Turkey was concentrating troops along the Bulgarian frontier as an outcome of developments in the Greek revolt, and the Turkish representative countered with the charge that his country could not overrule Bulgarian troop movements.

According to information at Geneva, former Premier Eleutherios Venizelos is hostile to Greek participation in the Balkan entente, which Bulgaria declined to join. Some Greek circles fear collusion between the Bulgarians and the adherents of Venizelos.

GAS SHOWING AT COLUMBIA

A telegram received this morning at the Victoria office, 228 Pemberton Bldg., from headquarters of the Columbia Oil, Vancouver, states that Mr. Barto, drilling superintendent, reported the depth of hole this morning at 2,268 feet with very strong gas showings. Officials expect Columbia to reach production very shortly.

Says Province Should Buy in Markets in Which It Sells; Russia Will Get Lumber Business Unless Change Made

Better trading privileges for Western Canada will save many millions of dollars more than reduction in interest rates.

British Columbia must have the right to trade on equal terms in world markets.

Regional tariffs could be worked out within Confederation and there is no need for secession. They are operating right now in fruit and there is no reason they cannot be applied to manufactured articles.

These were highlights on B.C.'s economic position within Canada brought out by Byron Johnson, Liberal, Victoria, when he spoke yesterday evening in the budget debate.

EXPORTING PROVINCE

British Columbia must remain for years an exporting province. But it was quite apparently not good business to sell cheaply on world markets unless it could buy at the same price level.

Extra prices paid on automobiles alone last year by British Columbians amounted to $1,800,000, which was nearly 10 per cent of the entire provincial budget.

"What we send out of the province this way is just as bad as if it were taxation," he said.

"Our problem will only be solved when our trade is put on a proper basis."

"If we stop to think, our monetary system is the result of our trade, so monetary reform will not correct the trade problem."

"Confederation never contemplated that B.C. and the west should suffer as it has done under the tariff."

"And when I advised regional tariffs here, some people thought I was too radical. But I would point out we already have them operating on fruit, and there is no reason why it couldn't be done on manufactured products."

He stressed the fact that B.C., depending upon world markets to sell its goods, must be prepared to buy in those same markets or it would lose the business. That was why it was so important to have the right to trade on an even basis. At present it had to buy everything from eastern Canada and could not buy from those to whom it sold.

"For instance," he said, "Russia is trading on a dollar for dollar basis, as it were, with Great Britain, and we are not prepared to do the same."

PENALTY PLAN PROTESTED

men for any offence. Neither should it have power to define offences. This was delegating the lawmaking power of Parliament. He said the same objection had been made to the Market Bill last session, but without avail.

"SECOND CRIMINAL CODE"
Other Opposition members also protested against granting power to an unnamed commission to establish a criminal code without sanction of Parliament.

James Stitt, Conservative, Selkirk, Man., said the Opposition was stronger than the government. Before anything could be introduced he must be convicted in a court.

The Liberal leader said the point was that the commission would define the crime and say what was legal and what was illegal.

In the end Sir George Perley said the clause could stand for further consideration.

SLIDING SCALE
A sliding scale of premiums under the bill was suggested by J. A. Bradette, Liberal, North Temiskaming, Ont., to be applied to workmen who had been employed for years and never drew compensations. Under his proposal a man who paid in steadily for five years would have his contributions cut 20 per cent.

Sir George Perley agreed with Humphrey Mitchell, Labor, Hamilton, Ont., that it was impossible to say what class of workmen would have steady work over a period of years. The Labor member referred to stone cutters whose jobs had been abolished by machines.

Sir George said he could not accept Mr. Bradette's principle of graduated premiums.

COURT ACTIONS
A long discussion took place on a clause giving an employer a right to sue an employer who failed to make contributions under the act and recover from him the amount of benefit he had been deprived of.

Liberal, Vancouver Centre: A. W. Nell, Independent, Comox-Alberni: E. J. Garland, U.F.A. Bow River, and C. G. Power, Liberal, Quebec East, urged the responsibility for such collections should rest with the insurance commission and not with the individual employer.

They also said the insured employee should not lose any benefits by reason of failure of his employer to make contributions.

Sir George Perley agreed to hold the section for further consideration.

MILL WORKERS
The House considered amendments of the bill Sir George proposed an amendment to make it clear that sawmill, planing mill and shingle mill workers would be included in the bill. Lumbering and logging workers are excluded.

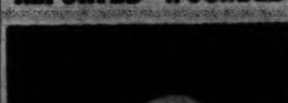

Mr. Nell urged that loggers in British Columbia be included because it was a year-round industry there and not seasonal as in eastern Canada.

J. A. Fraser, Conservative, Carleton Place, said logging in the interior of British Columbia was a seasonal industry and Mr. Nell's representations applied only to the coastal area.

EXPLANATION AWAITED
Before discussion of the bill ended Sir George promised to give a statement of the government's reasons for excluding certain groups of workers from scope of the insurance scheme.

J. E. Woodworth, Labor, Winnipeg North Centre, said he had requests for labor organization as to reasons for this phase of the bill.

Strong Pleas For Municipal Relief Are Made In House goods, in that it is retaining the grants taken away from the municipalities by the last administration.

"The confiscation of property for taxes is no credit to B.C. and it must be dealt with. Only by restoring property values can we bring back prosperity."

There is talk about housing schemes to revive business, but who is going to build under our confiscatory tax system on property?

Mr. Johnson's plea for better trading rights for the province followed the line which he has used previously.

When the B.C. delegation goes to Ottawa it should make this one of the paramount points of its case.

There are other things besides monetary reform to solve our problem and that is what I am concerned about.

MR. WISMER
Mr. Wismer in discussing the financial plight of Vancouver, declared: "The tax load on property has broken the backs of the owners."

"You admit it is grossly unfair that a tax on land should provide for education, social services as well as the general administration. You concede our position is due to the unloading of these costs on the city."

You grant the city and other municipalities should have new sources of taxation.

"You must appreciate our city's dire straits. Well, then, what are you going to do about it?"

"I do not agree with those who advocate a policy of watch and wait—timid hesitation while our city is being plunged into a financial morass of $1,000 compared with his $5,000."

He is the day for fearless leadership. "I trust that the old saying 'a prophet is without honor in his own country' will not be applicable to the first member for Burrard (Mayor McGeer) as far as this Legislature is concerned."

Neither himself, nor Mayor McGeer, had any doubt that the government in the Vancouver situation, despite some of the observations made by the mayor in the heat of debate, Mr. Wismer stressed.

CONFIDENT OF VICTORY
The commander of the government troops estimated the rebel forces pitted against him numbered 6,000 compared with his 80,000. Although chafing at the delay, he was said to be confident of victory "when the weather permits."

The generalissimo who yielded his position as Minister of War to take the field against the insurgents, asserted flatly that he could capture Kavala, rebel stronghold within forty-eight hours.

FILLING REPORTED
The rebels, reported to be in sore need of supplies, were said to have been pillaging numerous villages in their line of march.

For Greek warships were reported to have put out to sea in an attempt to intercept the rebel warships and turn them back before they came within shelling range of Athens.

The British battleship Royal Sovereign and the French destroyer Verdon were anchored in Piraeus harbor, their presence serving to allay somewhat anxiety over possibility of an attack from the sea.

The government was exercising every means at its disposal to cut off the rebels' source of supplies.

Greek consulates in neighboring countries were instructed to place an embargo on any shipments to Greece. This might fall into the hands of the insurgents. The partial embargo aroused concern in some quarters that the country may be compelled to enter on a period of strictly limited relations.

MESSAGE STOPPED
An appeal from Venizelos to John Politis, Greek minister to Poland, exhorting him to relinquish his post and become diplomatic representative at Athens, was said to have been stopped by the Egyptian Government, which was said to have been asked to stop the message.

It was said rebel prisoners are being freed in Athens after signing promises calling for the punishment of the revolt leaders.

Attorney-General, Gheorgiades, a Venizelist who vanished since the coup, was officially ousted from the cabinet.

The reported flight to Egypt of former Premier Venizelos remained unconfirmed and was considered improbable.

STATEMENT BY PREMIER
Athens, March 8.—Premier Panagiotis Tzaldaris in a statement to the Associated Press to-day said his government does not fear the rebellion and that it soon will be suppressed.

"An attack will be against other parts of the question," the Premier said. "All measures having been taken by the government to protect the capital."

Reports for Crete and certain of the Aegean islands as well as sections of continental Macedonia, all other parts of Greece are firmly in the hands of the government, and General Kondylis, who has taken command of troops twenty times superior to the forces of the rebels and who at the moment is avoiding an offensive because of the bad weather and the point of taking an offensive, the outcome of which leaves no room for doubt.

"From all parts of Greece' manifestations are forthcoming disavowing in violent terms the chiefs of the military movement and manifesting loyalty and devotion to the legal government.

"Greek opinion is vividly impressed by foreign opinion which with remarkable discrimination on the subject of responsibilities for the revolt unanimously reproves the ringleaders who are influencing their wavering followers to commit acts of sedition."

READY TO SMELL CANEA
Canadian Press from Havas
Paris, March 8.—Greek government warships are prepared to bombard Canea within the next twenty-four hours, reliable dispatches reaching here to-day said. Canea is the largest city on the island of Crete, which is held by the Greek rebels.

The loyal government fleet now approaching the island consists of six destroyers, reports stated. This includes three destroyers which moved southward from Salamis yesterday, after damages inflicted by the rebels last week had been repaired.

NEWS CENSORED
Other reports declare the state of siege is being maintained through the country with the utmost severity. Sharp censorship is maintained on all incoming and outgoing news. All ships entering Piraeus, the port of Athens, will be inspected by government officials. No travelers are permitted to leave the country without a special permit of the Ministry of Interior.

Arrests of Venizelist sympathizers in Athens and elsewhere on the mainland is continuing apace. The newspapers are reported publishing long lists of names of those arrested which include many figures in the diplomatic and business world.

Havana Strike Is Spreading

Associated Press
Havana, March 8.—The strike against the government of President Gerardo Machado spread to-day to employees of most of Havana's transportation facilities after a night disturbed by continual bomb explosions.

Street railway employees left their jobs, all but paralyzing the city's primary transportation system, and railroad and bus men voted to join the anti-government movement, but set no date for their walkout.

Fourteen bombs exploded in the city and its suburbs during the night and seven at interior points.

Army authorities took over the administration of hospitals and the care of thousands of patients after the institutions were deserted by their staffs.

His government departments were affected by extension of strike sentiment along with most municipal offices and their dependents.

REFUNDING PLAN STUDIED

Alberta Government Considers New Scheme to Reduce Debt Burden

Canadian Press
Edmonton, March 8.—A $131,000,000 refunding scheme of the present Alberta debt was outlined in the legislature by Hon. J. R. Love, provincial treasurer, during the course of his budget speech to-day. The plan proposed, he estimated, would save the province $2,000,000 a year.

Under this scheme, which is new to Canadian government financing, $50,000,000 of the present Alberta debt would be converted into consolidated perpetual stock bearing 3 per cent interest. The interest only would be guaranteed by the Dominion.

The remaining $81,000,000 of the provincial debt would be converted into thirty-year serial debentures, of equal annual installments, of principal and interest, bearing interest at 3 1/2 per cent. Sinking fund provision would be eliminated under this bill.

While advocating the plan, Mr. Love said the government was prepared to co-operate with other provincial governments and the federal authorities in formulating any other practical refunding plan that would achieve similar results.

DEFICIT FORESEEN
An estimated deficit of $999,470 is being budgeted for by the Alberta Government for the fiscal year ending March 31, 1936, Mr. Love announced in his budget speech. The province figures it will go behind to that extent after providing for sinking fund.

An increase of one cent a gallon in the gasoline tax is provided for in this year's estimates, raising the levy from six to seven cents a gallon.

Announcement of the government's intention to raise this tax was made early in the year, and drew strong protests from motor organizations and others. The increase is expected to yield the province an estimated $400,000.

With the exception of the gasoline tax, there are no other tax increases this year.

Britain Watches Greek Fighting

Battleship at Piraeus; More Authentic News Wanted

By GEORGE HAMILTON
Canadian Press Staff Writer
London, March 8.—Although discounting the dispute between Bulgaria and Turkey over troop movements on the Greek frontier, official situation in Greece is admittedly very anxious over the situation in the Balkans arising from the Greek revolution.

There has been no interruption of official communication between London and Athens, being belated by the presence of the battleship Royal Sovereign, with its powerful wireless, in Piraeus harbor, but the whole situation in Greece is admittedly very anxious over the situation in the Balkans arising from the Greek revolution.

Havana Strike Is Spreading

Associated Press
Havana, March 8.—The strike against the government of President Gerardo Machado spread to-day to employees of most of Havana's transportation facilities after a night disturbed by continual bomb explosions.

Street railway employees left their jobs, all but paralyzing the city's primary transportation system, and railroad and bus men voted to join the anti-government movement, but set no date for their walkout.

Fourteen bombs exploded in the city and its suburbs during the night and seven at interior points.

Army authorities took over the administration of hospitals and the care of thousands of patients after the institutions were deserted by their staffs.

His government departments were affected by extension of strike sentiment along with most municipal offices and their dependents.

PROVINCIAL SUBSIDIES

IF THE RECENT RECOMMENDATIONS of a Royal Commission appointed to inquire into what is known as "Maritime Claims," are implemented by Parliament, Nova Scotia, New Brunswick and Prince Edward Island will receive collectively, an increase of $2,475,000 annually from the federal treasury. Of this Nova Scotia will be apportioned $1,300,000, New Brunswick $900,000 and Prince Edward Island $275,000. These increases will replace the interim annual increases paid in pursuance of report of the Duncan Commission a few years ago, which for the three provinces aggregated $1,600,000. The $2,475,000 now recommended will run the total subsidies to be received up to $4,150,000, for the Maritime Provinces already receive collectively under the terms of their entrance into Confederation $675,000. Individually, Nova Scotia will receive, altogether, $1,953,000, New Brunswick $1,550,000, and Prince Edward Island $647,000.

The report recommending these increases was not unanimous, a dissenting opinion being given by Chief Justice Matheson, who contended that the majority did not give adequate consideration to the question of the fiscal needs of the three provinces, owing to conditions for which they were not responsible, proof of which always had been the first requisite in determining the aid given by the Dominion to a province. He also contended that a general policy should be adopted in regard to subsidies between the Dominion and the provinces, pointing out that the practice of dealing with the provinces singly or in various groups eventually would imperil Canadian unity.

There is much to be said for the general policy which Chief Justice Matheson advocates, and it is almost elementary that where special consideration is given to one province every other one will demand similar treatment and resent the refusal of Ottawa to give it. But, on the other hand, conditions demanding special consideration are not the same in all of the provinces. Both the Atlantic provinces and the western provinces are confronted with formidable problems for which they are not essentially responsible. Both groups have suffered materially from federal policy determined largely in the interests of central Canada, which imposes upon their financial resources a drain that they can not possibly meet, since they receive from Ottawa by way of compensation only a fraction of the financial assistance they actually need. The protective tariff penalizes these two groups, while heavy Dominion emergent taxation takes from them much more revenue than they actually receive from their own taxpayers for provincial requirements.

The whole question is inextricably bound up in the larger one of constitutional relations, in the adoption of some means by which each province could become self-supporting without the need of any subsidies from Ottawa at all. And that might leave the Dominion in as difficult a financial condition as some of the provinces are now.

A PRACTICAL RECORD-BREAKER

AT DAYTONA BEACH YESTERDAY Sir Malcolm Campbell drove his famous "thunder-wagon" Bluebird at an average speed of over 276 miles an hour, which was more than four and a half miles an hour swifter than the record he established two years ago. On the southbound run he exceeded 281 miles an hour, but the average officially recorded for the two runs stands at a little more than 276.8.

Sir Malcolm is in his fifty-first year, and at an age when most men very noticeably slow up in physical endurance. He evidently is even stronger than ever as far as piloting Bluebird is concerned. Whether he will leave his record stand for somebody else to challenge or will try to better it is doubtful. There can be no question that, aside from practical considerations, he enjoys his flirtation with death, which, as history shows, exercises a peculiar thrallhold of its own. Mankind never has been without its adventurers, from the beginning of human society, and there always have been thousands who have been eager to risk their lives in perilous ventures. First, it was on land, then on the sea, and now it is in the airplane and the racing motor car. Whether any particular profit would inure to civilization or not, in many cases has not been in prospect.

But Sir Malcolm Campbell should not be regarded merely as a dare-devil, carelessly risking his life in the presence of his wife and son. There is much method in his apparent madness, for his remarkable feat happens to be also an arresting exhibition of salesmanship, from which practical results will be derived by the makers of the wonderful mechanism which he drove across the Daytona sands, and who naturally will make the most of yesterday's dash. He is, in fact, a practical demonstrator of the progress made by British builders of motor machinery as well as of his skill and intrepidity as a driver.

OF CONCERN TO CANADA

IT IS NOT VERY COMFORTING FOR Canada to contemplate the fact that there are at present in the United States 22,000,000 on direct relief.

We are told in a dispatch from Washington that the peak of direct-relief receivers has been reached. Five million dollars a day are being expended to meet the necessities of these people.

The fact to which we have referred is another strange commentary on the war complex which prevails in all the major nations of the world.

One of these days the plain man and woman in the street will "break bounds" and tell governments where to alight—to spend money for their comfort and not for destructive purposes.

PIONEER BUSINESSMAN

IN THE DEATH OF MR. ANGUS

McKeown, for whom funeral services were conducted this afternoon, Victoria loses a pioneer businessman, who was highly esteemed in many quarters throughout the province. He came to Victoria from Belleville, Ontario, fifty-one years ago and for a considerable time was associated with the firm of Ames, Holden and Company, subsequently engaging in business for himself. At one period in his busy career he found time to take an active part in civic affairs, serving on the School Board and later for three terms on the City Council. He was very prominent in Masonic circles, being associated with many branches of that order, and at the time of his death was the oldest surviving Past Grand Master for British Columbia. Endowed with many amiable qualities, not the least of which was his gift for establishing strong friendships, he had a legion of well-wishers by whom his passing will be keenly regretted and whose unreserved sympathy will go to his widow and family in their bereavement.

GET DOWN TO "BRASS TACKS"

THERE ARE A FEW FACTS ABOUT the cost of the last war to Canada which should be more widely published.

How many people in this country, for instance, realize that the financial responsibilities incurred by Canada on account of that great conflict amounted to more than $2,000,000,000, and that each year Canadians are paying $165,000,000 more in taxes in consequence?

Here is a study in relativity. In 1914, this Dominion's debt was less than $340,000,000. It is now very nearly $2,700,000,000!

Yet we have in this country people who would have us spend more money on various forms of so-called defence.

What we ought to do is spend money in making friends with peoples—no matter what their color—so that we may thrive by trade, because trade thrives by peace.

LESLIE OF LOWESTOFT

BRITAIN IS CROWDING OVER THE world's biggest baby. This is not in rivalry with the Dionne quintuplets' family, but it seems that The British Medical Journal has made a great fuss over the extraordinary case of Leslie Bowtell of Whitehorse Street, Lowestoft, who is only three years of age but weighs 140 pounds. He is a problem that no doctor has yet been able to solve. One, Dr. Bowtell, says:

He is not able to walk or stand, but this is scarcely to be wondered at.

The mentality of the child is normal, he talks, sings hymns, feeds himself (he is left-handed), and his memory is good. He is very active.

His increase in weight is due to increase in fat, and not to skeleton over-development. His height is only 36½ inches, he has small feet and hands, and tapering fingers.

Leslie weighed seven pounds at birth. This is his weight chart:

1 month9 lbs. 8 oz.
3 months16 lbs. 8 oz.
6 months29 lbs. 8 oz.
12 months59 lbs. 12 oz.
3 years76 lbs. 0 oz.
3 years140 lbs. 0 oz.

If this progress in corpulence continues, what will be Leslie Bowtell's equatorial bowel measurement when he is old enough to be an alderman?

WHAT OTHER PAPERS SAY

PUTTING IT NICELY
 The Regina Leader-Post

Women's feet are getting bigger, according to a shoe authority. Now couldn't this have been put more diplomatically? Couldn't it have been stated that women's understanding is gradually broadening?

DEFECTIVE EQUIPMENT
 The Peterboro Examiner

It has been suggested that police officers should be given authority to order motor cars in dangerous mechanical condition off the highways.

Would it not be a more effective and more logical method of dealing with this matter if there was an adequate inspection of automobiles before license markers are issued, and if licenses were refused in all cases where cars are found to be in bad shape mechanically?

Under the present system an old broken-down "crate" is permitted to travel the highway; so long as its owner can scrape up enough money to pay the fees it does not matter whether the machine has faulty brakes or none at all, whether its steering gear is reliable, or whether it has lights. Out it goes to endanger the lives of drivers and pedestrians and to threaten the property of the public.

THE MARKET PLACE
 The Border Cities Star

Mr. C. B. Binder, advertising manager of The Port Arthur News-Chronicle, tells the Montreal Advertising Club that newspaper advertising columns have become the market place of the community. In ancient times, Mr. Binder explained, peddlers went from door to door delivering their goods. To-day the columns of the newspapers formed a medium of exchange as well as setting forth bargains and descriptions of articles for sale and articles wanted.

This is the situation in a nutshell. Not at any time in the history of the publishing business have the newspapers been providing a greater, more complete service than in the case now. Not only are they better papers, from a news, feature and educational standpoint, than ever before, but their advertising departments are more valuable to the public.

The beauty of the newspaper—as compared to all other forms of advertising media—is that while some persons come into contact with a firm's goods through this or that medium, all persons see the announcement when it appears in the press. The finest of magazines, for instance, reach part of the people; the newspapers reach everyone. And the newspapers carry the message at by far the lowest cost.

Across the Bay

We endure another tremendous day—with the vote of Vancouver penetrating the din—the vote of Mr. McGee, somewhat softened and chastened—the vote of our own Don Johnston—and many lesser voices.

By BRUCE HUTCHISON

BIG DAY

THURSDAY was another tremendous day in the House—tremendous in the volume of uttered words; tremendous in its blame and praise; tremendous in its threats and promises; tremendous in its heavy-handed wit and brutal rejoinder; tremendous in its sheer physical endurance.

Mr. Wismer opened the day most acceptably, in the first real utterance since his election, used by a popular member in the House, a good fellow and friend of everybody. Mr. Wismer does not aspire to oratory, leaving that to his friend and desk mate, Gerry, but he makes a first-class, businesslike speech. It was as we felt old, though, when he recalled that there used to be a partnership of young lawyers called Wismer and McGee, who never imagined that the entire firm would sit side by side in the Legislature some day. But Mr. Wismer was not merely sitting right beside his old colleague in the House; he was standing squarely behind him, and what he had to say about the great ability of the junior partner of the old firm almost made Mr. McGee blush, but not quite. Nothing so nice had ever been said about him before in these premises.

ANOTHER GERRY

MR. MCGEE'S speech, which had drawn packed galleries as usual, was far better than his first effort of the session. It left the Scriptures strictly alone. It avoided abstractions and fantasy of all kinds. It stuck to business and it was the first real attempt to pull the Hart budget to pieces and see what made it tick. It was far more business like and practical than most of the Mayor's recent oratory, but it was not the kind of stuff to excite the spectators and rouse the House. The House listened, but it did not show any signs of thrill as it did a year ago.

The reason, probably, is a human one. A year ago the House expected Mr. McGee to hurl bombs at the government, to make trouble, to create excitement. This is always jolly and full of suspense. We like it.

This year, the mayor of Vancouver, charged with high responsibilities of his own, he came in a different spirit, a spirit which has softened and been chastened a little, perhaps, even in the last fortnight. He came to admit that the government was doing remarkably well under a system which made it impossible for any government to do anything worth while. He came to ask a new deal for his city. And in this spirit he managed to keep his private opinion of the government pretty well under control, except for one or two lapses.

FROTH

THE SUBSTANCE of his speech you can read elsewhere. It had froth as well as substance, but not nearly as much as usual. For instance, he added to the rich vocabulary of provincial politics the choice term, "hoo-mall-mall," which he picked up at Honolulu a year ago and which means, roughly speaking, "kidding up along." This, as you would suspect, was applied to Mr. Hart's budget.

Yes, the budget was hoo-mall-mall and its surplus was "100 per cent boloney." Indeed, his friend Mr. Hart, having frightened everybody by predicting deficits which he didn't really expect and then removing them, reminded Mr. McGee of the country doctor who, unable to diagnose a patient's illness, induced an attack of fits because he was an expert in the treatment of that disease. Mr. Hart had created fictitious deficits only in order to show that he was an expert in removing them. And even then he hadn't been able to do it.

IRISH

STILL, MR. MCGEE couldn't avoid a sneaking admiration for Mr. Hart. Other finance ministers throughout the country were office boys for the bankers, but Mr. Hart was a banker, when Mr. Hart and Mr. McGee came from over in Ireland, they don't breed office boys for bankers.

Only once did Mr. McGee become directly involved with the treasury benches. In the midst of a roundabout debate on the face of the prime minister, he stopped to say that the plight of the country was no laughing matter. The Premier, with a cold and quiet sarcasm, said it was not the matter he was laughing at. Mr. McGee did not need to be told twice what or whom Mr. Pattullo was laughing at and it made him pretty mad.

It would be no laughing matter, said he, if Mr. Pattullo faced a Liberal convention or a general election. We would come to that in due time, said the Premier, quite unruffled. With a fine modesty, Mr. McGee retorted that he might have to go to Ottawa in the meantime, but before the next provincial election he probably would be back here as usual to take care of the situation. One didn't know whether this was prophecy or just repartee.

He made his speech rather heavy in parts with figures out of this budget and many other budgets from 1917 onwards, but showed the results of the provincial sinking funds relieved this desert of deficits and debts. Sometimes, he said, the sinking funds were included in the normal cost of government. Sometimes, to show a surplus, they were removed, and then they would be put back again. Leaning over his desk and grinning an Irish grin at Mr. Hart, he murmured: "Off again, on again, gone again, shenanigans" which, in Irish, means "foolin' the boys. Sure 'tis always off again, on again, gone again, shenanigans, when you're a 'buiden' budgeter." Even Mr. Hart had to smile at this nostalgic touch.

Another jolly quip was reserved for Dr. Allen Harris, who had told us the other night how we can make rubber from coal, aluminum from clay, liquor from Olanagan fruit, when wasted. Also, said he, under this wretched monetary system Dr. Harris would never be able to carry out his plan to pave our roads with apple peels. Under this wretched monetary system they would be paved with applesauce.

HORSEPLAY

THE FIRST hour of the evening session was given over to some what laborious horseplay by Mr. Uphill. Most of his speech was unintelligible, but the boys seemed to enjoy it. A few of his cracks were up to his old standard, as when he urged Dr. Harris, the chemist, to make a lady's stocking out of woodpulp. He came to ask a new deal for his city. And in this spirit he managed to keep his private opinion of the government pretty well under control, except for one or two lapses.

Mr. Uphill took full credit for proposing interest cuts away back in 1932, when everybody thought he was crazy and the speaker ruled him out of order. He concluded with a strong appeal for help to Perth, the perfect example of capitalist exploitation, where the mining operators were moving out, leaving the town to die by inches.

SORE POINT

MR. PRICE, the genial C.C.P. gentleman, spoke briefly to resent Mr. Wismer's suggestion that he and other C.C.P. gentlemen from Vancouver were trying to save their city from bankruptcy. Actually, they hadn't been invited to sit in with the Liberal members in trying to find a solution of the problem. Mr. Wismer looked to Mr. Price as a sort of pacer for Mr. McGee, who used not to require such support.

Very charity and not very effectively, Mr. Price skated around the declaration of his leader, Mr. Woodsworth, in favor of enfranchising the Orientals. He could only say that it was a prominent Liberal politician and the big corporations, that had brought the Orientals here in the first place. The reference was just enough to show that the Oriental attitude of Mr. Woodsworth is getting under the skin of the C.C.P. here.

Mr. Kenney, of Skeena, who is developing as one of the most promising of the new Liberals, took Mr. Price up pretty sharply. He quoted Mr. Woodsworth's words in Skeena, showing that he had come out emphatically for enfranchising the Orientals in British Columbia because it was ridiculous that the international situation should be clouded by the prejudices of a few people out here.

From Mr. Johnson, of Victoria, came one of the most significant speeches of the debate. He warned the government bluntly that, in continuing to withhold revenues from the municipalities, taken from them by the former administration, it was in the position of the receiver of stolen goods.

Mr. Johnson elaborated his special field, the need of trade to solve our problems. Trade, he said, would be a much quicker solution than money reform and he demanded for British Columbia the right to buy on the same price level on which it sold. To make this possible he proposed regional tariffs though he was flatly opposed to any talk of secession. Mr. Johnson, no financial arrangements with Ottawa, he said, would compensate us for our present intolerable trading position.

Every time it hears Mr. Johnson speak the House regrets his present intention of retiring from politics at the next election. He represents that type of young man whom we are always crying for in politics and seldom get.

The debate was nearly over when we went to bed. Only Mr. Sloan and the Premier remain.

HOLD COUNCIL OF FRIENDSHIP

Canadian Press
Toronto, March 8.—Delegates from all over Ontario, Quebec and Saskatchewan were in Toronto today to attend the fourth Council of Friendship of native and foreign-born Canadians at the Young Women's Christian Association here.

Sponsored by the national council of the Y.W.C.A., many other women's organizations, the Imperial Order of Daughters of the Empire, Local Council of Women, Women's Art Association, social workers, educationists, business men, representatives of labor and of different churches have cooperated in promoting the convention.

The prime aim of the movement is to break down barriers and promote more friendly relations between "old" and new Canadians.

HONOR MEMORY OF FRANCES WILLARD
Under the auspices of Rockland Park W.C.T.U., a large gathering of enthusiastic people took place at the home of Mrs. James Hird, 2023 Edmont Avenue, on Monday, the occasion being a commemorative meeting in memory of Frances W. Willard, founder of the order.

Rev. W. R. Brown gave an informative address on the present situation of the liquor traffic in the province and suggested methods of resisting it. Long range methods, he said, are not enough. In thanking the speaker, those present agreed to write personal letters to the members of the Legislature for their respective districts, protesting against wine and beer being served in restaurants and other public eating places.

Mrs. Travis, in pleasing voice and sympathetic understanding gave two sacred solos. The meeting closed with many thanks to the hostess and those who had made the afternoon such a success.

Many persons who would ridicule a 1920 model automobile are quite content to go on using out-of-date, inefficient gas ranges twenty or more years old.

Age and use play havoc with a range as they do with anything else.

In order to obtain full economy from your gas service, you must have modern, efficient appliances.

Use gas the modern way and it will give you the utmost in convenience and economy.

DANCER TO WED
"10-MILLIONAIRE"

The "liquid gold" dancer of Rosette Bowland, American girl who has captivated Paris, has won the heart and hand of one of Europe's greatest catches, say reports from the French capital. The dancer, shown here in an off-stage gown, will be the bride of Baron Jean Empain, subway king with a $10,000,000 annual income.

A meteorite picked up in New Mexico was found to contain minute amounts of gold.

TRAGIC END OF FORMER BEAUTY

"Baby Doe" Tabor Found
Frozen to Death at Late
Husband's Mine

Associated Press
Leadville, Colo., March 8.—Elizabeth McCourt, "Baby Doe" Tabor, faded beauty of a faded past, was found frozen to death yesterday in her shack at the Matchless Mine, where millions flowed when her late husband, H. W. Tabor, was a prince of the roaring twenties.

Wrinkled by his seventy-three years of spectacular living, she was lying on the floor of her one-room shack pressed in the remnant of a wardrobe that once made her the best dressed woman in Denver. Coroner James Corbett said she probably died about February 20.

Of the Tabor fortune, that "once totaled millions, only two wrinkled dollar bills and a few small coins remained in the shack. Friends said she had no other resources.

The aged "Baby Doe" made good the promise to her husband on his deathbed that she would remain in her shack, and on occasion drove trespassers away with a double-barrelled shotgun.

For forty-one years since the death of the husband, the "Baby Doe" clung tenaciously to the belief that in some way, perhaps through a "miracle," the Matchless would rebuild the great fortune which Tabor lost in the panic of 1893.

The beautiful "Baby Doe" was brought to Colorado's rough mining camps by her youthful first husband, Harvey Doe, an Central City beauty became famous among all the mining camps. It was not long until she divorced Doe, Tabor, who came west from Holland, Vt., was near the crest of his meteoric rise to wealth and fame.

He had started as a grocery store owner at Leadville, and grubstaked two shoemakers in a mine. "The Little Pittsburgh," that produced him his first million.

His wealth was estimated at $11,000,000 when "Baby Doe" arrived and Tabor, many years her senior, fell in love. He had recently divorced his first wife, the hardworking Augusta Pierce Tabor. He was named United States Senator for Colorado.

So he and "Baby Doe" went to Washington, where they were married with President Chester Arthur and his cabinet as wedding guests.

The Tabor were the leaders of the west's society, but soon misfortune came. He died a year after he had been appointed postmaster at Denver, his entire fortune gone.

ROYAL ARTISTS' WORK SHOWN

Canadian Press
London, March 8.—The Royal Family is well represented at the exhibition of the Royal Amateur Art Society. There is a portrait by Princess Louisa, a water color of Windsor by Queen Alexandra, sketches by Queen Victoria, and a delightful drawing of a tree and water done by George III when a boy.

This is one of a leaf of a copy book, evidently intended for geometry, for the prince had begun a theorem at the page's top. His daughter, Charlotte, sketched a tree and water, and several drawings and some hand-painted china by this lady, who later became Queen of Wurttemberg.

When our son Jim was single he hurt Ma's feelin' by criticizin' her cookin' but since he married Dora he comes home for Ma's cookin' so often that I feel hurt."

EX-SOCIALITES ARE STARVING

Once Wealthy Sisters Found
Near Death in New York
Home

Associated Press
New York, March 8.—Dressed in the flowing silk finery they were as social queens of the once aristocratic Upper East Side of New York, two elderly spinsters were found near death starvation yesterday.

Gone were the butlers and the footmen and the stocks of choice wines from the old-fashioned home when investigations entered and found the sisters, the Misses Ella and Emma Knowles, seventy-seven and seventy-nine, unresponsive.

Two withered orange peels were the only trace of food in the house. Miss Emma lay on the kitchen floor and her sister, paralyzed, was found in an upstairs bed.

Neighbors said that while it was generally known that the sisters were in straitened circumstances, all offers of food or other assistance had been politely but firmly refused. With the gentle dignity of a bygone day, the sisters would insist that they had "plenty to eat."

Their plight was discovered by William McComb, who became worried when repeated knocking failed to bring anyone to their door, and notified the police.

"Too much bother," a reporter suggested.

"Yes," agreed the father of the world-famous babies.

Your Baby and Mine

By MYRTLE MEYER ELDRED

BABY'S SCHEDULE MAY FOLLOW
HOME ROUTINE—WITHIN LIMITS

Every household differing as it does in its daily routine must of necessity plan baby's schedule in accordance with it. When the father of the family goes to work at 4 a.m. and returns home early in the afternoon, it is more than probable that the baby of the household will wake at that hour for his first feeding and eat his own day at 4 p.m.

If instead the household is accustomed to late rising hours there is real justification for the routine which starts baby's day at 10 or 11 in the morning and ends at that time at night. It is vastly important that children be awake during the day and asleep at night. It is inevitable when such an unbalanced schedule begins operating (for whatever reason) that mothers who wait for the night will use their baby's habits as justification for it.

In effect they will say, "Well, he doesn't sleep anyway, we might as well take him to the movies." All of which merely perpetuates a habit which might have been temporary if immediately corrected.

HABIT DETERMINES BED TIME
The habit of staying awake until 10 or 11 p.m. is just a habit and baby no more enjoys these hours of wakefulness than he would enjoy the morning ones. He may at first have stayed awake for some reason related to his food, or to overlong afternoon naps and it is these situations which demand treatment. One should not succumb to an unnatural schedule and make it seem to be baby's own choice.

The baby should become used to the idea that bedtime follows the last daytime meal. The habit, "Hours of Sleep," indicates the proper, but flexible, routine which can be suited to each individual home. Please send self-addressed, stamped envelope to Myrtle Meyer Eldred care of the "Your Baby and Mine" department of this newspaper.

DON'T BLAME THE BABY
The baby and the young child should not expect pleasurable activities at night. It is the child's acceptance of these routines as natural which makes it impossible for there to arise those situations in which the mother says, "Baby won't go to sleep until 10," or more often, "until the family goes to bed."

One knows, without being told, that when a child is stubbornly opposed to good night time habits it is because he has never been accustomed to them from infancy. Naturally it is just as easy to establish poor as good sleeping habits. But don't blame the child.

Moreover, milk itself builds growth better when eaten with oatmeal, than with most cereals!

IN a simple, healthful breakfast of oatmeal is stored the precious vitamin B that combats poor appetite, nervousness, constipation.

And the amount of this vital element in a single bowl of Oatmeal is equal to that contained in 3 cakes of fresh yeast.

Why milk builds better with oatmeal
Milk contains the growth vitamin G which doctors say works best in combination with the vitamin B in oatmeal.

NEW PLAN FOR OPERA SEASON

Metropolitan, New York, to Add Popular Season to Usual Programme

Associated Press
New York, March 8.—Fighting against death by deficits, the Metropolitan Opera Association intends to make the next season the most ambitious in its history.

The programme calls for the usual fourteen weeks of grand opera, and then a popular season at which American singers will be given an unparalleled chance to win their spurs.

This supplemental season was one of the conditions on which the Julius Hard Musical Foundation agreed to underwrite the 1935-36 season to the extent of $150,000. The directors of the association this week approved the plan in principle.

Three requirements must be met. The directors must underwrite an additional $100,000, the public co-operate by a 10 per cent increase in season subscriptions; and the personnel agree to lower weekly wages in view of the longer season.

Herbert Witherpoon was designated to succeed the veteran Giulio Gatti-Casazza as general manager. Edward Ziegler was retained as assistant manager, and Edward Johnson, Canadian-born singer of Guelph, Ont., was selected as assistant manager to direct the supplemental season.

PIANIST HAS FALL
Regina, March 8 (Canadian Press)—Falling through a sheet of paper which he mistook for a solid wall, Al Smith, Canadian Radio Commission pianist, yesterday evening tumbled twenty feet to the ice of the Stadium rink from the orchestra pit and escaped with nothing more serious than bruises and a sore back.

There was no one near to see. Stroude's hand went into a pocket, emerged to show the dull black handle of a revolver.

"Keep that thing out of sight!" Vogel warned.

"Sure, I'm keeping it out of sight." There was a mildness in Stroude's tone that belied the light between his narrowed lids. "Get yourself one of these," he repeated, nodding to the younger man. "Might come in handy."

Vogel picked up his cup of coffee, drained it and set the cup down. "Come on," he said crisply. "Let's blow out here."

An hour later Phil Henderson reached the mill village. All afternoon it had rained, but the air was clear now, not even cold. Phil had been out in a good part of the downpour and his clothes were damp, as were his shoes. It was nearly eight o'clock now and he was hungry. He hadn't eaten anything except a roll and hot-dog since breakfast. Phil wasn't going to take Ole's money and spend it on lunches.

All day long he'd been looking for work, without the slightest encouragement. At the last place—Trask's garage, where someone had told him they might need a man—he'd waited almost two hours to see the proprietor. That was why he was so late getting home. The wait had been fruitless. Ben Trask, when he finally arrived, said there was a job all right, but his nephew was coming to take it.

Oh, well, it was too much to expect from the building and, as Phil said, he came up the main street of the mill village. It was lighted sparsely with the red leading to the mill. Joe's pool hall occupied one corner at the intersection, and light shone through its windows.

There were two men standing in front of the building and, as Phil stepped out, a third opened the door and stepped out. It was Joe Gillespie.

"Hi, Phil," he called.

"Hi, Joe. What do you know?"

Phil waited and Gillespie did not answer until he was beside him. Then he said, "Not much. Got a chance to ride over Buxton this morning. I thought I might get something to do in the brick factory."

"Any luck?"

"No."

Phil said, "There doesn't seem to be much doing around here. I've been a dozen places to-day."

"Oh, well, something'll turn up."

"Sure?"

"Where you goin'?" Gillespie wanted to know.

"Home. I haven't had anything to eat yet."

"I'll walk along with you."

They had taken only a step or two when the door of the pool hall opened. A voice called, "Hey, Gillespie!"

"Yes."

"Come in here a minute, will you?" Joe said to him. "Can you wait for me? There's something I want to talk to you about."

"Sure."

Joe disappeared inside the building. Phil turned toward the two men near the curb. One of them asked, "Haven't got a match, have you?" Phil brought a package of matches from a pocket.

"Thanks."

A black sedan, chugging noisily, came down the street and halted at the opposite curb. Three men got out and started toward the pool hall. Phil saw the one in front was Ed Vogel. Stroude, who also worked at the mill and who was Vogel's usual companion, was behind. The third, a smaller man, Phil didn't know, though he'd seen him once or twice. The man who had borrowed the match held a package of cigarettes.

TOOTHACHE RUBARB CONTAINS ELEMENTS EXCELLENT FOR BUILDING BONE AND TEETH

By MARY E. BAGIE

NBA Service Staff Writer

Tender and pink and succulent, rubarb, in my estimation, is worth more to the home-maker than all the other hangers-on of pleasant put together.

For aside from its pleasing taste, flavor which naturally stimulates appetite, rubarb is a fine source of important food elements. It has phosphorus, so necessary for strong teeth and sound bones, as well as the essential vitamin C.

Rubarb must not be overcooked. Vitamin C is destroyed if subjected to too great heat for too long a time. And use as little water as possible because rubarb is juicy.

When you make sauce, add the sugar just before removing from the fire. Then let come to the boiling point and take off at once. In this way, you need much less sugar.

RUBARB COOKIES IN PRESERVES

Proven dishes, hot or cold puddings and gelatine dishes are delicious made with rubarb, while well-sweetened rubarb sauce is good with plain rice and cornstarch puddings.

For rubarb's shortcake, make an old-fashioned shortcake with baking powder biscuit dough. After baking, split, butter and fill with sweetened rubarb sauce. Serve with plain or whipped cream.

Rubarb Betty is made like brown Betty, only with rubarb instead of apples.

For rubarb tapioca pudding, the fruit is cooked in tapioca and water, with sugar added when fruit is tender, or the tapioca may be cooked separately and poured over rubarb arranged in a buttered baking dish and the whole baked thirty minutes in a moderate oven. Serve with sugar and cream or with a custard sauce.

The first rubarb usually has tender skin and if well washed need not be peeled. As the season advances the skin grows tough and stringy and should be removed.

Rubarb cobbler is one of our favorite desserts to finish off with a fish dinner.

RUBARB COBBLER

One pound rubarb, 1 cup flour, 2 teaspoons baking powder, 1 teaspoon salt, 1 tablespoon melted butter, 2 tablespoons sugar, 1 egg, 2 to 4 tablespoons milk.

Wash rubarb and peel if necessary. Cut in inch lengths and put into buttered baking dish. Add 1 or 2 tablespoons water. Mix and sift flour, salt, sugar and baking powder. KATE PRESENTS WALLACE SISTERS

Last fall the three attractive Wallace sisters came up to Manhattan from their native Birmingham, Ala., as winners of a network talent hunt. Kate Smith heard their harmonizing, signed them up, and now, under her ample wing, the girls (who really are sisters) are featured weekly on Kate's Wednesday Matinee Hour over the Columbia network from 12 noon to 1 p.m. P.M.T. Top to bottom are Louise, Mary Jo and Billie.

Rimsky-Korsakoff Opera Is Feature

A special concert for children and young people by the New York Philharmonic-Symphony Society, under the direction of Ernest Schelling, and featuring the colorful opera of "Snezhnitsa" (The Snow Maiden), by the Russian composer, Nicholas Rimsky-Korsakoff, will be broadcast over the Columbia network from 11.30 a.m. to 1.30 p.m. P.M.T. to-morrow.

Originating in Carnegie Hall, New York City, the broadcast will present many unusual features. One of the most vivid and imaginative of Rimsky-Korsakoff's opera, "Snezhnitsa," or "The Snow Maiden," tells a delightful love story of the imaginary Kingdom of the Berendey.

With the Philharmonic-Symphony orchestra will be heard the chorus of the Art of Musical Russia, while the opera is being presented by the Art of Musical Russia Inc., with Ivan Ivanoff as stage director.

Shrapnel Weakened STOMACH

Now a Well Man

Among the thousands of former sufferers from indigestion, gastritis, flatulence, acidity, dyspepsia, heart-burn, and even serious cases of stomach trouble who now enjoy healthy appetites, and robust health as the result of taking Maclean Brand Stomach Powder is Mr. J. W. of Norwich, England. Shrapnel got Mr. W. in the stomach, and left him with severe stomach trouble. After years of suffering, he finally found relief in Maclean's. "I can now eat and sleep well," he writes, "and do not get any trouble before or after eating."

Maclean's is made according to the formula of the Head Stomach Specialist of a famous London, Eng., Hospital. It is a highly successful in defeating all forms of stomach distress.

MORE WORK FOR SENATE URGED

Ottawa, March 8.—Initiation in the Senate of a great amount of legislation was advocated yesterday evening by Mr. Hon. Arthur Meighen in an address to visiting representatives of the British Empire Junior Board of Trade. "There is no reason why the Senate should not be the initiating body of much legislation," the government leader in the upper house said.

Senator Meighen advised his young audience not to be too confident of opinions formed early in life and not to be too confident of these opinions were their final ones in relation to problems with which they had not come into direct contact. Old England, he said, which had succeeded in usually adopted the practice of the shrewd business man and watched the other fellow as he tried his experiments.

Designer Advises Women On What Clothes to Buy

By MARY MARGARET MCHIE
Taste by mail! Vera Maibrunn believes she can deliver that intangible commodity all ready for successful use by the least clothes-conscious of women.

Doing it is, in fact, this daring young woman's profession. Sculptor by avocation, and by trade until recently style adviser to dress manufacturers, Miss Maibrunn woke up not long ago in the middle of the night with the inspiration that has led to her present flourishing career. To-day she has hundreds of clients to whom round-shouldered. Some have hips far too large for the rest of their bodies. Others have hips that are too small and shoulders that are too broad.

ALL CAN BE DRESSED WELL.
"Such women have no idea how to go about getting what they ought to have. Some day, perhaps, shops will supply experts to help them. But now there is nobody. The woman looks and looks and finally buys, often something unsuitable."

"That's so unnecessary. There's no woman with even the smallest clothes allowance who can't be at least tastefully dressed. It's all in knowing what to buy and what to avoid buying. I have always had clothes sense and a feeling for proportion—my sculpture has given me that. I have amused—or perhaps I should say seduced—myself many a time by watching women in crowds. Women wearing brown shoes and black hats. Wearing old worn-out furs, corsets that gave them weird shapes, colors that ruined whatever charm and attractiveness they might have."

"I've frequently had to hold on tight to myself to keep from just walking up to some of those people and saying: 'Look here, do you realize how different you would feel and she gives seasonal style readings by correspondence to help them plan their wardrobes.

"Most women," she declares, "have no clothes sense at all. They are perfectly helpless in the hands of saleswomen because they don't know what they want or what they ought to have."

"The saleswoman is helpless, too, for while she may recognize her customer's needs and problems, she must sell what she has on hand and be quick about it. This situation is complicated by the fact that nearly every woman has a definite physical difficulty to make clothes-buying harder. A great many, unfortunately, are look if you should make just this one little change in yourself."

QUESTIONNAIRE GIVES DATA
A woman in the park once did request her styling. Miss Maibrunn admits, and never guessed how near she came to being made exhibit one in the Maibrunn plan.

The questionnaire which the client fills out lists her height, weight, age, dress size, measurements, coloring, style of hairdress, shape of face, color preferences, type of personality (quiet or lively), how she uses make-up, and her particular clothes problems. Once filled out, these facts are kept on file together with the woman's address that give the key to her personality. Each season just before time for the client to plan her clothes, Miss Maibrunn goes into prolonged session with the questionnaire, carries it about with her and broods over it for hours—its psychological as well as physical aspects.

Then she writes the clothes recommendations which presumably will guide her correspondent through another four months.

FOUNDING of MARYLAND

TWO light sailing vessels, The Ark and The Dove, left England in 1633 with 325 Roman Catholics led by Sir George Calvert, first Baron of Baltimore.

Their landing, on February 24, 1634, at Point Comfort, marks the opening of a territory which today includes Maryland, Delaware and parts of New Jersey and Pennsylvania. This territory was called Maryland in honor of Henrietta Maria, consort of King Charles I.

Maryland marked the tercentenary of this event with a two-cent stamp showing the Ark and the Dove, with the state shield in the background.

clothes-buying," announces the oracular Miss Maibrunn, slim, dark, perfectly groomed, and the assured of chic herself, "is to have few things at a time, have them as good as you can afford, wear them constantly and then throw them away. For the average woman, I recommend only three complete outfits—one for street, one for afternoon and one for evening. With these, there will be nothing to hang away in the closet and hate."

Miss Maibrunn sends samples of colors and materials, but does not shop for her clients.

"I have nothing but advice to sell," she explains.

DON'T BUY TOO MUCH
She has lived and studied art and clothes in Paris, Vienna and Brussels, but she believes New York is fast becoming the clothes centre of the world.

"It won't be long now until Paris will be coming to New York for styles," she predicts. "That is not surprising, since the American ideal of beauty is sweeping the world. The Frenchman, you know, begins to look at a woman from the shoe up. The face is the least of his interests."

"In America it is just the opposite. American women want to look pretty and the men want them to look pretty. So, naturally, their clothes must achieve that effect rather than chic. Well, the French know how to make chic clothes, but not pretty ones."

It is possible for bacteria to survive in a state of suspended animation for thousands of years.

Scientific progress and invention demanded that a drastic change be made for the sake of humanity.

"Why in England, some of my relatives have never worked a day in their lives and are just living on the dole," he declared.

"Here we have $2,500 people on relief and in Canada 1,182,000. When I hear glowing phrases about this province, I think what a crime it is."

It is all right to talk about the B.N.A. Act, or any other act, but we should be men enough to see that no man has to go out in hand for a hand-out."

He pleaded for consideration for the citizens of Fernie, who, he said, had built homes, established themselves and then found the means of living denied them. This was the most scathing indictment in Canada of the capitalist system.

BUDGET IS BAD PRICE CLAIMS

Jack Price Surprised to Hear Minister Claim It Is Balanced

Under the present capitalist system it was impossible for people to live in reasonable circumstances, Jack Price, C.C.F., Vancouver East, claimed during his speech in the budget debate in the B.C. Legislature yesterday.

Not 15 per cent of the people of the province had an income of over $100 a month. A big proportion had incomes no greater than that of relief recipients, yet British Columbia was capable of supporting 700,000 people on a high scale of living without reliance on outside markets or any other consideration than the needs of its own people.

Mr. Price touched briefly on the advocacy of the enfranchisement of the Oriental in Canada by the federal leader of the C.C.F., Labor opposed the introduction of the Oriental twenty years ago on the grounds that it would reduce the standard of living of the white people of the Dominion. The C.C.F. now took the stand that the Oriental, having been admitted should be permitted to vote.

DIMMY TACKLE

"I was surprised to hear the Minister of Finance say he had brought down a balanced budget," the speaker continued. "To me such a statement is mere puffery. When I played rugby we used what we called the dummy. It was used for fooling in the tackle but you can't use the dummy tackle all the time. There is no such thing as a balanced budget and you cannot fool the people into believing that there is."

The member doubted the co-operation plea voiced by Mayor McGeer at the afternoon session, stating Mr. McGeer had not before shown any particular desire to co-operate in solving Vancouver's or British Columbia's problems. In this regard he also questioned whether Mr. McGeer or any other Liberal members of the Legislature recognized the importance of the 100,000 votes in the province which the C.C.F. represented.

POLICE AFFAIRS

He touched briefly on Vancouver police affairs to remark he would like to see the completely removed from political tinge. Regarding the appeal for an appropriation of $50,000 for tourist business, he questioned whether it would not be better to give consideration to the "box car" tourist arriving at B.C.

The right of company employees to organize in company towns was defended by the speaker, who claimed that right was not given to employees of the Trail smelter.

The speaker advocated a flat minimum wage for all workers in British Columbia. For that, he said, a scale dealing with all workers could be established.

URGES DISCARD OF CAPITALISM

Fernie Is Great Example of What System Does, Says Uphill

Pleading with the Legislature to discard the whole capitalist system and adopt a more humanitarian method, Thomas Uphill, Labor, Fernie, last evening enlivened the budget debate with Irish humor.

"Most of the members of the House admit that the capitalist system has not only decayed, but has outlived all usefulness," he said. "If we don't do something quickly, the angry people will be taking us out and lining us against a wall."

In Europe, which he recently visited, Mr. Uphill said he found many signs of distress and that while conditions had improved somewhat in Great Britain, he said it was largely a matter of the "rich getting richer and the poor getting poorer."

Scientific progress and invention demanded that a drastic change be made for the sake of humanity.

"Why in England, some of my relatives have never worked a day in their lives and are just living on the dole," he declared.

"Here we have $2,500 people on relief and in Canada 1,182,000. When I hear glowing phrases about this province, I think what a crime it is."

NO TAX RAISE IS EXPECTED

Draft Estimates Indicates Saanich Will Not Increase Mill Rate This Year

Despite a reduction of nearly $1,000 in land assessments, effected by the court of revision to ease the burden of taxation on property, the Saanich Council yesterday evening appeared to be in a position to set the 1935 municipal tax levy at the same rate as last year—forty-two mills on land and on 20 per cent of improvements.

The completion of the budget without adding to the taxpayers' load marked the winding up of a successful year in 1934, when the bank overdraft was fully paid and tax collections exceeded fondest expectations.

Based on 82 per cent of collections, it is estimated $179,600 will be required from the tax levy towards meeting the gross expenditures of $229,000. Of this amount, $111,600 will be raised for general purposes and $168,000 will be devoted towards school taxes, including the Craigflower area.

The reduction in land assessments, made on improved properties, was from $85 to $80 an acre.

GRANTS INCREASE

Among the features of the budget was the estimate of an increase of $7,500 in government grants on account of motor licenses, waterworks, sales and new service fees and the inclusion of payment of $9,747 more than last year for interest on municipal debentures.

Substantial increases in revenue were estimated from delinquent taxes, tax sale redemptions, and fee-for-service accounts. These were felt to be justifiable in view of the general trend, and on this basis it was estimated 82 per cent of the levy would be collected this year instead of the 79 per cent budgeted for last year. In 1934 actual collections were 81.5 per cent of the total levy.

On the expenditure side of the statement increases were made in allowances for 1935 on 1934 purchases, which were increased about $1,400, and administration and maintenance of the waterworks department, which was raised by $4,000. The relief appropriation was tentatively set at $30,000.

Further consideration will be given the estimates during the next two weeks and it is expected the tax rate will be struck at the next meeting.

SAANICH POLICE
BUDGET PASSED

Expenditure of $12,500 for the administration of the police department during 1935, was approved by the Saanich Police Commission yesterday evening when the annual estimates were passed.

This figure is practically unchanged from last year, when the budget called for $12,443 and $12,377.50 was spent.

Included in the budget the chief items of expenditure were $7,382.50 for salaries, and $1,137.50 for two new motorcycles. Other expenses were estimated at approximately the same figures as last year.

DINING ROOMS ARE BRIGHTER

This is to be a season of bright-hued dining-rooms. Authorities on digestion have suggested that drab-colored places to eat may have something to do with indigestion and the decorators have been quick to take the hint.

One decorator would match the carpet with the draperies or else use for the hangings material of the same color as the wall background.

She also points out that even though the material is different, the dining-room curtains should be hung in the same style as those in the living room if the living room is to be a unit.

Living room curtains may be straight or looped-back, but should be floor-length this year.

SELECTIVE LOG METHOD URGED

C.C.F. Member Asks House to Ratify Enforcement of Scheme

Claiming that the logging industry could be "rationalized" just as easily as the pulp and paper industry had been, Ernest Bakewell, C.C.F., MacKenzie, moved in the Legislature yesterday to have the Department of Lands enforce the use of flexible equipment in all operations in the province, or in other words adopt selective logging as the standard measure.

"There is no doubt," he argued, "we must do something like this. The logging industry today is six times as hazardous as it was in 1919 and three times as hazardous as coal mining."

The pulp and paper industry, he said, had effected rational changes and had not only cut down the hazard but had speeded up production.

"If it can be done in one industry it can be done in another," he said. Mr. Bakewell took issue strongly with figures presented by R. V. Stuart, secretary of the B.C. Loggers' Association, to the forestry committee last week relative to the risk in logging. Mr. Stuart had taken as the basis for his calculations the entire personnel of the industry in the province while, said Mr. Bakewell, his figures on logging accidents had been based upon Coast operations where the high-lead method was in full swing.

Instead of one fatality for every 350 men in the woods, as Mr. Stuart had said, there was actually one for every 150, he claimed.

Citing values of the selective method, he stated that on the Buck and Turner operations on Vancouver Island, the men turned out 1,250 board feet per day, whereas the average in high-lead camps was calculated at 1,000 feet a day. Opponents of selective methods could not say that the production rate was not as large as the high-lead system.

"And we propose nothing revolutionary in this," he said. "It is being tried in the United States to the south of us. Numerous reports prove it is a sound method of handling our forest production."

Hon. A. Wells Gray, Minister of Lands, adjourned the debate at this stage.

More than a thousand different materials were used in a patchwork quilt which a seventy-six-year-old woman exhibited at Chesham, Eng., as a sample of her handiwork.

"Hoo-mali-mali" Says McGeer of Budget

Vancouver Mayor Finds It
"A Masterly Effort By a Super Financier in Supporting the Present System": Supposed Surplus Won't Be There, He Claims

The kind of budgeting outlined by Hon. John Hart, Minister of Finance, was all right as long as you intended to meet debts you can't pay by issuing and selling promises you don't intend to keep, but it is a mighty sorry way to finance governments," Mayor G. G. McGeer, M.P., member for Vancouver—Buried, told the Legislature yesterday afternoon, when he spoke in the budget debate.

The Vancouver mayor complimented Mr. Hart upon the showing he had made in his budget. He had no quarrel with the statement as far as it typified a "masterly effort on the part of a super financier in using the system which he supports."

"But," he said, "advocating the national credit plan, 'don't forget we were elected to go behind monetary reform. Instead we've continued to gouge interest, we propose to force municipalities into bankruptcy and, simply, we are trying to do a possible thing in an impossible way. The fight for monetary reform is world-wide. It's a fight to the finish, and we either conquer the money oligarchy or it will destroy our democracy."

For the reason that it was designed to put on the best front possible, the budget could be called a lot of "hoo-mali-mali," or "just plain kidding," the surplus was "baloney" and, in other words, it was "pure eye-wash," he declared.

When the government was not providing money for either relief costs or sinking funds, it could not lay claim to the $108,000 surplus. The province was actually going behind $6,500,000.

"The only good feature of the budget is that it shows the utter hopelessness of trying to finance government under the conditions existing to-day," he declared.

URGES ONE POLICE FORCE

Mr. McGeer opened his address with a plea for the government to take over the entire policing of British Columbia, proposing it be put under the Provincial Secretary's Department and the Attorney-General be reserved as the chief law enforcement officer in actual fact. He pointed out that in seven of the provinces, police are paid 60 per cent of British Columbia territory and it would be an easy step to include the other 8 per cent.

He prefaced his attack on the budget by saying he did so with the view of a man who believes this system cannot carry on. My criticism is directed at the system and not at those responsible for the perpetration of the budget.

"The point is," he declared, "we are not using our monetary resources for development and for progress, but to pump an embalmish liquid into the dead credit system, which is not reviving but becoming more and more petrified."

He dealt with the budget first from the investor's viewpoint, but said he could not reconcile the fact that with a "surplus" on one hand, it also proposed, on the other, the reduction of interest rates to 3 per cent.

INTERNATIONAL COMMISSION

"And another thing I can't quite get. The province proposes to reduce interest and no one says very much. But when I suggested to Vancouver's bondholders that they consider suspending—only suspending—aiding you portion of the interest, it set up an international commission with representatives in the City of London, the Parliament Buildings at Ottawa, and yes, in the Parliament Buildings of British Columbia, too."

"Then why is it this proposal of the Finance Minister to save us $6,000,000 a year creates no trouble? Is it because we are to await the consent of the bondholders, because if it is, the widows and orphans who hold the securities will be grandmothers and grandfathers before it goes through."

"In Vancouver I accepted the plan to have Thomas Bradshaw investigate our finances, because I knew he was the president of an insurance company and would be against reduced interest. Then, when we got his report against lower interest, no one can tell me that I have to get the consent of the bondholders before I can cut interest. The point is, you can't get the consent of the bondholders."

"SOMEBODY KIDDED"

"Somebody is being kidded along on this refunding scheme, but apparently it isn't the bondholder. He's not deceived because he's saying nothing."

Mayor McGeer claimed that the province could not expect the assistance of the Bank of Canada in refunding because the Bank of Canada could lend only up to one-quarter of a province's total income, and then only on a temporary basis.

"To also like to know," he continued, "in what respect the Vancouver proposition differs from the Finance Minister's proposition. Perhaps I can tell you. When I made the proposal in Vancouver they knew I meant business and that is why they all got so alarmed."

"And I would remind you I still think interest rates are coming down. They've got to come down. We can't afford more than 3 per cent and this is a fair wage for money in this depression."

Mr. McGeer charged that excluding the borrowed stock from the refunding was straight discrimination.

"A STEP AHEAD"

"Probably the reason is our friends the money changers in London were just a step ahead of the boys here. They were waiting for the refunding scheme to go through."

He charged the government had had the refunding scheme power for a year and some, and that the money changers and London had been getting money at 60 per cent lower than paid by British Columbia.

Turning then to the question of sinking funds, he quoted a budget speech by Mr. Hart in 1919 in which sinking funds were regarded as a current obligation. If the Finance Minister had carried on the same basis this year, his deficit on that account alone would be $3,230,000.

"What justification is there for talking about surpluses when you have this big deficit in the sinking funds," and then are not paying for relief costs, items which total about $4,000,000.

LEGISLATION

"It is quite plain that this budget is an example of legislation in which the cunning of the super-financial mind produces surpluses by concealing debt. It is taking illusion and magnifying it with delusion so that no matter how serious the situation becomes you are like the Irishman who says: 'When everything gets hopeless it comes to be serious.'"

Bond dealers, he claimed, would like the budget no matter which way the pendulum swung. The bond dealer would accept the surplus at its face value and the refunding scheme as well, because he knew that interest rates must come down and every day they continued was "a day of relief."

Mayor McGeer then switched back to Vancouver's situation and declared that failure to provide sinking funds to the extent of $7,000,000 there might render all the sinking funds for disqualification as a result.

"If we are not relieved of our obligation in this regard, we soon won't be able to pay either sinking funds or interest. And I say this, as long as I'm mayor of Vancouver we propose to levy for schools, health, police and general administration as a primary consideration. Payment of interest will come second."

"Humanity before usury. That is my position."

He suggested the talk of the big British Columbia refunding loan might be to cover up the conversion of the $25,000,000 floating debt on which the "bond dealers would cash in with commissions."

BOND DEALERS' BUDGET

"No matter what happens the bond dealers will benefit. I have heard it called a 'bond dealers' budget.'"

Returning again to the "surplus," he said the government, for one thing, had not provided enough for expenditures to pay for necessary services. There was no money for many needed things.

"We're not going to get money for industrial loans, and we won't have any for chemical treatment of the core and apple peeling to produce wealth for our roads, but we're going to continue paying our roads with appliances."

"We need our current obligations and provided for the expenditures we should make, we would actually be going behind about $11,000,000."

GROWING DEBT

"Every minister of finance has been showing surpluses and balancing budgets for years past, but the fact was that debt had been increasing at the rate of $6,500,000 a year in the meantime."

"Shelly out-shelled Shelly in this respect. Jones out-started Jones when the minister has out-Jonahed them all," he declared.

"As a matter of fact," he continued, "with the exception of this province, the ministers of finance in Canada have all been out-Jonahed by the man who gives them their credit. Or our present Finance Minister this is not true, because they don't breed office boys for ministers in the country he comes from."

He declared that while the floating debt at November 1 last was $18,785,000, another $2,000,000 in treasury bills had been borrowed since then, and we still have a month to go.

Loans from banks were $512,000 greater than when the government took office, he claimed.

"How can you have a surplus when your bank overdraft has increased? Personally, when I have a bank overdraft at the bank I never have any surplus cash in my pockets."

OTTAWA SUBSIDY

The government, he said, might congratulate itself on its success in getting the $750,000 subsidy from Ottawa, but he could imagine Premier Bennett and Finance Minister Rhodes chuckling up their sleeves when they had loaned the province $15,000,000 at 5 per cent. The interest on this would soon offset the $750,000 subsidy.

"Ottawa would not allow its farmers to take federal farm loans at 5 per cent. They got them at 4 per cent," he said.

"We also got slapped on relief Alberta and Saskatchewan got more per month than the $150,000 federal grant to British Columbia. And the Finance Minister tells us this share of $1,500,000."

"OUT-POKED"

"Take from this the $750,000 subsidy and you find that Bennett and Rhodes out-poked Hart to the tune of $600,000."

When he accused the government of not "going down the line to fight the oligarchy of money" there was amusement on the government benches, and Mr. McGeer declared: "This is no laughing matter. If it would be no laughing matter, if the Prime Minister had to offer himself to the electors to-day."

"The time will come," said Premier Pattullo.

"Yes, I know it will. I may have to go to Ottawa to straighten out a few things there in the meantime, but I'll be back to fix it up," repeated Mr. McGeer.

"People can sneer at my ideas; they can sneer at my honesty or anything else, but when they sneer they are answerable to $4,000,000 of voters who voted for me in Vancouver. If there ever was handwriting on the wall, that was it."

Vancouver Mayor to Be Chief
Speaker at Five Year Plan
Meeting at Royal Victoria

Mayor G. G. McGeer, M.P., M.P.F. of Vancouver, will be the chief speaker at the "Work to Prosperity" mass meeting to be held at the Royal Victoria Theatre a week from this evening under the Five Year Plan of reviving Victoria and the island through tourism inaugurated by Mayor Leeming of Victoria.

The meeting will launch the movement for the consolidation of all the communities on this island in a drive to shake off the effects of the depression and establish a new lease of life.

It will be followed early in April by an all-island gathering in Nanaimo, B.C., at which the mayors and reeves of the island. Residents of every part of the island will motor or go by boat to Nanaimo for the day to take part in the conference.

Mayor Leeming will preside at next Friday's meeting here. He will be assisted by Reeve Crouch of Saanich, Reeve Mayhew of Oak Bay and Reeve Lockley of Esquimalt.

Included with Mayor McGeer on the list of prominent speakers will be Herbert Anson, M.P.F., Sybil Johnson, M.P.F., E. A. Hanna, M.P.F., Norman Whitaker, M.P.F., and Hugh Savage, M.P.F., who have all devoted much time to the study of trade and tourist development.

T. H. Edick, the internationally known expert who has been brought here to be the executive in charge of the details of the Five Year Plan, will attend and discuss plans. A feature of the meeting will be the question box period, during which Mr. Edick from the stage will answer questions sent in by mail to headquarters at the Chamber of Commerce between now and the time of the meeting.

The annual show of the Victoria Kennel Club opens to-morrow with the largest list of entries for any dog show ever held by the club in Victoria. The show is to be held in the Assembly Hall, Port Street, and the exhibits will be on all day and night for to-morrow, Thursday and Friday.

The ex-servicemen of Victoria have issued through The Times sporting columns a challenge to play any football team in Victoria, to be played at either Oak Bay or the Royal Park on either Monday, March 11, or Tuesday, March 12. They put the challenge to either a single club team or a team composed of the best players in all the clubs of Victoria.

Hardware Store Fascination

Whenever I go to a hardware store, I wonder the customer friend
And gaze at knots for the kitchen door
Is a matter that's most profound
I look at the glistering pins and nails
And the hardware and the electric fans
And I wish I could buy them all.

While mother is getting a packet of tea
I stroll down the hardware store
I linger to handle a broomman's ax
And the chisel and the file
And I fancy that deep in the heart of me
The boy that I was survives.
For, oh, how I love to lounge
I look at the pocket knives.

There is something about a hardware store
Which, strange, I can't resist
And I think it's the joy I have imagined
Which catches my life has missed
Though under the cloak of the job I do
That many a passion cools.
A man will keep to his dying day
A deep-rooted love of tools.

BOOKS

Twenty books advertised by the Ottawa Public Library as "important," Mr. Sykes writes: "This plan is as yet an experiment, but it seems to have aroused a good deal of interest."

Nine of these books are found in our own library, and of the balance, several have been eliminated on the ground that many people would hardly consider biography important in times when all our lives are in jeopardy. Outstanding among these books appears to be "A Study of History," by Arnold J. Toynbee; three volumes now out. These list at $7.50 a set of $15 for the three. Concerning these volumes, the Ottawa library states: "It would be hard to overestimate the importance of this work."

If prudence, there he found thirty people in or near Victoria who would like to initiate an experiment somewhat different from that of Ottawa, the writer will endeavor to make connections with some organization to accept money, and deliver books in or near Victoria, and outside this territory to the local post office. The books now or in the condition of new books. If, prudence, there he found these people ready to invest $60 for the privilege of reading these three volumes free from penalties made by readers of oblique mental development, still we will make the plunge, confident that it is in their favor. It will spread by word of mouth. The writer will contribute three other volumes, with his reasons for considering them important. (See below).

To repeat: The idea is that many of us buy many books because we want to read them once, or twice, or may—and if so, we want them clean. Once read, they remain on our shelves unused for years. Why not let others read them when like new, and within a few months donate to the public library? They will disappear. (Note: Obviously the method of selecting "important" books is vital. "Book of the month" clubs are not above suggestions of commercialism, and the "important" books are not always important. Method must be evolved, but for the present, perhaps our best plan is to follow the Ottawa Public Library.)

Upstairs, Victoria, Friday, March 7.

"CALENDAR REFORM"

To the Editor:—In Mr. W. E. Harper's address on "Calendar Reform," he mentioned the evident drift of opinion away from Colver's back-to-nature plan to the twenty-month "World Calendar." Colver's plan is too revolutionary to receive public approval.

The World Calendar proposes each quarter begin on Sunday, with twenty-two working days in each month. But even so it will not give perfect satisfaction, comparisons as to holidays and weather eccentricities will interfere.

Over 700 large firms are now working on such a calendar, except that they omit the leap day. A questionnaire shows that the majority are not interested in any general acceptance. As it will take considerable time to prepare for the general change, which begins on Sunday, is looked upon as the logical year to introduce the new calendar.

The only real opposition to the proposed scheme is from religious bodies who consider the week a divine institution. Both the above mentioned plans would break the continuity of the seven-day week cycle by inserting seven days between Sunday, once or twice a year, instead of six. Remove this objection and all would be well. Mr. Harper and Mr. McGeer will never change their run day to suit some pet calendar scheme.

Both plans have one surplus day in each year and two in leap years. One day would be inserted between December and January, and one between June and July in leap years. This would not be a week day but a blank day—a holiday or religious day if desired.

As each year must begin on Sunday it is proposed to insert the day between Saturday and Sunday. A large minority would retire December 30, 1935, anticipating the next day to be Sunday. But it would not be. The calendar would say it was just a holiday called Year Day, but millions would keep that day anyway. The next day—Monday—would be called "Sunday." The next "Saturday" would find many refusing to work, being the true Sunday. Many companies would not open their doors. Some business houses would be closed. This would recur every "Saturday" in 1935. But in 1936 the surplus day would move the "divine" week again, and "Friday" would be the day on which conscientious first-day observers would be forced to rest. Conscientious school teachers would refuse to teach. Many school children would be withheld by their parents. The reader can imagine the confusion which would result in 1935 "Thursday" would be the day after "Wednesday" in 1935. In leap years the divine week would be pushed back twice in the blank day calendar week. Possibly new churches would arise and separate congregations would be effectively cut from society. A half-million Christians believe in heaven, and millions would also be in the same quandary. But there need not be any trouble or confusion. No religious body would permit calendar revision. If, instead of inserting blank days, the days would be allowed to accumulate for five or six years and then add another week, called "Leap Week" to the end of the year of December. The leap week would be the same as the preceding week with the letter L added. This would allow anniversaries to be celebrated on the same week in ordinary years. There is no objection to the Leap Week plan. It would occur only three times in the first seventeen years.

NATURAL PRODUCTS MARKETING ACT

To the Editor:—The scheme under this act will very shortly come into force, and it concerns the producers of vegetables, and also the lessors (owners) of land used, therefore, to land currently into its provision.

I have attended one meeting, and read accounts of others, but nowhere have I heard any mention of the costs. It should be noted, therefore, that all expenses of the act will be payable by the producers.

In the Okanagan, which is a comparatively limited district, and where the levy for last year was $60,000. There, even with that large amount at their disposal, the only attempted scheme was generally confined to rail shipments in car-lots, it being almost impossible to keep a check on smaller quantities.

On Vancouver Island, with dozens of small lots all over the island, any attempt at effective control will not be feasible. The growers on this island are never able to get good prices, as the cost of the market goes to imported low-grade American produce. The small seasonal duties are imposed too late, and are too small to prevent dumping.

There is another vital point, i.e., the growers may be stopped selling by the board, and have to watch the same article being imported and sold at lower prices, while their own stuff is rotting, and there apparently is no power to prevent such importations.

Tariffs for the prairies are unobtainable for British Columbia and vice versa.

The only solution would be for each province to have separate tariffs, and also the power to control any particular produce being imported either from abroad, or from another province.

There is still an opportunity to vote against the act, and to elect a policy of "wait and see" how it works on the mainland would be wise, and would save the growers from a very expensive experiment.

Stranded Fliers Arrive in Town

Associated Press
Bulawayo, Southern Rhodesia, March 6.—Lady Young, wife of the Governor of Northern Rhodesia, and Dr. James Kerby arrived in Gokwe yesterday after being lost in the wilds of Southern Rhodesia a full week.

They were escorted into the native town by G. W. Cameron, a white trader who had been their host in a little village following the forced landing of their airplane.

Lady Young said: "I feel quite all right, but I am a little tired."

POLICE CHANGE ADVOCATED

Vancouver Member Proposes Province Take Over Entire B.C. System

Launching a vigorous fight for reform in the police administration of Vancouver, Gordon S. Wilmer, Liberal, Vancouver Centre, told the Legislature yesterday that "the police of Vancouver have been a political football for the past twenty years."

"On practically every change of administration at the City Hall the heads of the police chief and a half dozen of his leading executives fall in the basket. We have had seven police chiefs in the last twelve years," he declared.

"We demoralize the whole force temporarily and until it is built up again we have chaos."

"While we are doing the boot-licking out of the front door, the gun-men and thugs are coming in at the back door. I say it is a vicious system and leads to vicious consequences."

Mr. Wilmer said he did not propose to lay the blame for this condition at any person's door, but upon the system of political control.

"What have we in Vancouver today," he continued, "An ex-police chief lying in his hospital bed under indictment of a serious criminal charge. If he is guilty he will be punished, and rightly so, but it is not a sad commentary that a man who was recognized as one of the greatest athletes in the Dominion."

Rubber Company President Condemns Critics of Private Ownership

Toronto, March 8.—"Those who are so forceful in the condemnation of private industry are usually persons who have produced nothing, employed no one and contributed little, if anything, to society or government, and are usually self-interested and seek their gains through politics," declared C. H. Carlisle, president of the Goodyear Tire and Rubber Company of Canada Limited, in addressing shareholders at the annual meeting here Monday.

"It is a class of inexperienced and selfish persons who would run your business and confiscate your property. The demagogue's arguments in favor of socialism are plausible, but he has never proven the soundness of those arguments by results," continuing Mr. Carlisle.

"The controlled industry and public ownership may appear to those who are not experienced or who have not made a careful study, but the results have not been beneficial. Our public-owned railway has been costing you about $100,000,000 a year. Our much-cherished Ontario hydro-electric system, which has been considered as the criterion of public ownership, is now, according to the press, condemned by Hon. A. W. Ross, Attorney-General, as 'being operated in the most inefficient manner, its losses great and its financial structure in danger. It would likely be informative to you, if you were to study the period of the last 150 years and to ascertain the results of public ownership and socialism, on the one hand, and private ownership on the other hand, and compare the results as to how they affect the welfare of all our people.'"

Mr. Carlisle pointed out that the Goodyear company had paid in salaries and wages, $53,983,028.18 since its inception, and $2,895,435.65 last year alone. It had paid in freight, $19,388,786.02; in taxes, $5,763,848.48; hundreds of thousands of dollars in insurance, and in the last year it had paid in taxes, $953,514.75.

Analyzing the company's history, Mr. Carlisle pointed out that in its twenty-four years not one day of operation had been lost by a labor dispute or strike. Seventy-two per cent of the factory employees had made a continuous service of from five to twenty-five years. The sales force had an average service of thirteen years and a number of salesmen had been with the company from fifteen to twenty-five years.

Reviewing the company's treatment of the buying public, Mr. Carlisle said: "Over a long period of time the Canadian rubber industry has had a substantial protective tariff. This tariff has been beneficial to the industry and to the country at large. We appreciate this protection and the company has shown its appreciation by not taking advantage of it to price its products from a tariff standpoint. Its products have been priced at all times in relation to costs, and not withstanding our tariff protection, our higher cost of production and distribution as compared with the United States, we have sold our products as low as 7 per cent above the United States prices. The year the company made its largest profit, the profit on net sales was only 4 1/2 per cent. Such a profit could not be considered excessive."

Discussing the company's strong financial position, Mr. Carlisle said this was due to the fact that for seventeen years there was only one 6 per cent cash dividend paid to common stockholders, the earnings being retained to strengthen the company.

"Viewing the position of your company," said Mr. Carlisle, "you may conclude your investment is safe, that you will receive an adequate return and be able to convert it readily into cash. I am not so sure that these conditions exist or will continue to exist. The security of your investment appears to rest largely in control of your transitory governments. The money you invested in this company some years ago is now worth 50 per cent of what it then was, your taxes last year were 16.05 per cent of your domestic sales. You have no assurance that this rate will not be increased. It is also possible that the earnings of your company or that it may not go further and impair your capital. Our staggering government debt of over $7,000,000,000 is increasing yearly by $175,000,000. If these debts are to be paid, the burden is yours. You will pay either through higher taxes or the devaluation of your money. You likely agree with me that our present debt does not exist through necessity. If this be true, who is to blame? May I say you are the ones to blame, you who are responsible citizens, you who know, you who are responsible as to who shall govern, you who pay the cost of government; the present adverse conditions are the result of your inactivity. They can only be remedied by your activity and your constructive effort."

The company yesterday reported 1934 earnings equivalent to $7.19 a share on the common stock outstanding. This compared with $6.75 in 1933.

Profits were $2,028,210, against $1,991,510 in 1933. After deduction of $599,476 for depreciation, $504,172 for preferred dividends, and $100,000 pension fund, 1934 net surplus was $181,514, compared with $200,750 in 1933, when common dividends were much smaller and no allowance was made for pensions.

Profit and loss balance was carried forward at $7,921,701. Working capital at $6,783,499, compared with $1,168,061 at the close of 1933. The reduction in working capital was due to Goodyear Cotton Company's bonds amounting to $789,000.

Profits were $2,028,210, against $1,991,510 in 1933. After deduction of $599,476 for depreciation, $504,172 for preferred dividends, and $100,000 pension fund, 1934 net surplus was $181,514, compared with $200,750 in 1933, when common dividends were much smaller and no allowance was made for pensions.

Profit and loss balance was carried forward at $7,921,701. Working capital at $6,783,499, compared with $1,168,061 at the close of 1933. The reduction in working capital was due to Goodyear Cotton Company's bonds amounting to $789,000.

Rubber Company President Condemns Critics of Private Ownership

Toronto, March 8.—"Those who are so forceful in the condemnation of private industry are usually persons who have produced nothing, employed no one and contributed little, if anything, to society or government, and are usually self-interested and seek their gains through politics," declared C. H. Carlisle, president of the Goodyear Tire and Rubber Company of Canada Limited, in addressing shareholders at the annual meeting here Monday.

"It is a class of inexperienced and selfish persons who would run your business and confiscate your property. The demagogue's arguments in favor of socialism are plausible, but he has never proven the soundness of those arguments by results," continuing Mr. Carlisle.

"The controlled industry and public ownership may appear to those who are not experienced or who have not made a careful study, but the results have not been beneficial. Our public-owned railway has been costing you about $100,000,000 a year. Our much-cherished Ontario hydro-electric system, which has been considered as the criterion of public ownership, is now, according to the press, condemned by Hon. A. W. Ross, Attorney-General, as 'being operated in the most inefficient manner, its losses great and its financial structure in danger. It would likely be informative to you, if you were to study the period of the last 150 years and to ascertain the results of public ownership and socialism, on the one hand, and private ownership on the other hand, and compare the results as to how they affect the welfare of all our people.'"

Mr. Carlisle pointed out that the Goodyear company had paid in salaries and wages, $53,983,028.18 since its inception, and $2,895,435.65 last year alone. It had paid in freight, $19,388,786.02; in taxes, $5,763,848.48; hundreds of thousands of dollars in insurance, and in the last year it had paid in taxes, $953,514.75.

Analyzing the company's history, Mr. Carlisle pointed out that in its twenty-four years not one day of operation had been lost by a labor dispute or strike. Seventy-two per cent of the factory employees had made a continuous service of from five to twenty-five years. The sales force had an average service of thirteen years and a number of salesmen had been with the company from fifteen to twenty-five years.

Reviewing the company's treatment of the buying public, Mr. Carlisle said: "Over a long period of time the Canadian rubber industry has had a substantial protective tariff. This tariff has been beneficial to the industry and to the country at large. We appreciate this protection and the company has shown its appreciation by not taking advantage of it to price its products from a tariff standpoint. Its products have been priced at all times in relation to costs, and not withstanding our tariff protection, our higher cost of production and distribution as compared with the United States, we have sold our products as low as 7 per cent above the United States prices. The year the company made its largest profit, the profit on net sales was only 4 1/2 per cent. Such a profit could not be considered excessive."

Discussing the company's strong financial position, Mr. Carlisle said this was due to the fact that for seventeen years there was only one 6 per cent cash dividend paid to common stockholders, the earnings being retained to strengthen the company.

"Viewing the position of your company," said Mr. Carlisle, "you may conclude your investment is safe, that you will receive an adequate return and be able to convert it readily into cash. I am not so sure that these conditions exist or will continue to exist. The security of your investment appears to rest largely in control of your transitory governments. The money you invested in this company some years ago is now worth 50 per cent of what it then was, your taxes last

RED MENACE SEEN IN U.S.

If That Country Has Trouble, Canada Will Have It Too, Colonel Stephenson Says

"In the United States they have the greatest red menace they have ever known. Unless something is done they are going to have trouble, and if they have trouble we will have it too, and then we may have need of the Canadian, Scottish," stated Colonel Bruce Stephenson when speaking to members of the Credit Granters' Association at luncheon to-day in the Douglas Hotel. Colonel Stephenson gave impressions of his recent trip to eastern Canada and the United States.

"That country is in a chaotic state," Colonel Stephenson said of the United States. "No one knows how things will turn out. It is a funny country and a selfish country, and the sooner they realize they cannot live by themselves, but come out and play ball the sooner will prosperity be back. There are many fine people in the United States. They like us, and many of them want to come here and live, because they realize this is a law-abiding country, and they will be safe here."

Colonel Stephenson said things in eastern Canada were "red hot," but had not shown the improvement he expected after the way conditions were this time last year. Conditions in the United States have a tremendous bearing on conditions in Canada, he said. The trains in the United States, however, seem crowded with business men.

EASTY ATTITUDE

"The east coast nothing for the west, except for what it can get out of it," Colonel Stephenson said, urging Victorians to place as much business as they can in their own city. "Politically, economically, and in every other way they are sitting up for us and will not let us sit up and take notice."

He said the people of Montreal had an entirely different outlook from the people in the rest of Canada, particularly from people in the west. The French-Canadian population had a great influence, he said.

The speaker told of his visit to New Orleans and his trip home across Arizona and Texas to California and up the coast of the United States. In the country he was struck by the absence of cattle on the ranges. From the train windows he saw the skeletons of many cattle, which he killed or died during the great drought of last year.

New Orleans he found most interesting, with its old French quarter, 100 years old. There were bars everywhere, he said, and the city was "wide open." This city was the home of Huey Long, whom Colonel Stephenson characterized as "a bit of an ass, who has a few brains, but uses them in the wrong direction." He passed through the Carolinas and saw the fields of tobacco and cotton. Coming west on the train, he said he met Max Baer, played bridge with him and also was a travel companion of Guy Lombardo, and his children. The Colonel Stephenson, who was thanked by Walter J. Fletcher, vice-president of the association.

Sawdust Becomes Big Fuel Factor

Consumption in Industrial Plants and Homes is Increasing

During the Fuel Commission investigation here and the recent floods on the mainland, the public's attention was drawn to the prominent part which sawdust is playing as a fuel. It was announced that there are eleven thousand sawdust burners in Vancouver, and Victoria is now becoming a large user of sawdust.

Several large plants in Victoria have sawdust burners and have become large users of this fuel.

This morning R. M. Williams of the Alert Service announced he had received a contract for ninety cars of sawdust, which means 900 tons, sufficient for one year's supply.

NEWS IN BRIEF

H. A. Winch, M.P.P., will speak at the C.C.F. Hall, Mount Tomin on Sunday afternoon at 2 o'clock.

A request from the Mount Douglas High School P.T.A. to have a fifty-yard boulevard on Fallis Avenue to Cedar Hill Road, was referred to the municipal engineer for report, by the Saanich Council yesterday evening.

To-morrow has been set as the President's Association day to enable it to continue the work that is found so necessary on behalf of the disabled veterans. Taggers will be found at convenient points throughout the city.

On his visit to Montana to the conference to discuss northwest tourist business, Mayor Leeming will speak at Missoula, March 19; Helena, March 20, and Butte on March 21. Moving pictures of Victoria and Vancouver Island will be shown at each place.

The Saanich Council yesterday evening approved a change in the school site at Cadboro Bay, being notified by the school trustees that two of the lots had been received for the old site. The new site will be located at the present park site in the community, a change which is permitted by the municipal by-law.

A special service will be held to-morrow morning at the Christian and Missionary Alliance, Yates Street, from 10 to 11 o'clock, when Dr. Hester will give a farewell message before leaving for Palestine on Tuesday morning from Seattle. All prayer fellowship members are expected to be present.

Charged with a morality offence on a twelve-year-old girl, Victor Cello was remanded while he appeared in Juvenile Court this morning. The case will proceed next Tuesday morning when witnesses will be called from Duncan by the prosecution. W. M. Haldane is acting for the defence.

During February the Saanich Police Department attended forty-eight complaints, according to the monthly report presented by Chief Allan Rankin to the municipal police commission. There were twenty police court cases and $443 was collected in fines and other levies. In January the force attended forty-nine complaints and collected $306. There were no court cases.

After hearing arguments to-day Judge Frank Higgins, K.C., and R. C. Lowe, the two lawyers, Judge Lampman at noon reserved judgment in the action of the Royal Wood Company against William Baylis. The wood company seeks $200 damages for the burning of 145 1/2 cords of wood stored on Mr. Baylis's property at Metchemin awaiting shipment into Victoria. It is claimed that the fire of the Baylis land had ignited the cord-wood pile and sent it up in smoke.

FUNDS NEEDED FOR SHELTER

Request For Calls For Odd Jobs Also Made at Meeting

With H. H. Smith presiding, the committee in charge of the Citizens' Recreation Rooms, held their monthly meeting last night.

A. H. Hurdley, secretary, reported attendance and use of the rooms is averaging about the same as last year. He noted calls for men to do odd jobs are not so frequent the last few months, and made a request to the public to telephone 5 6032 when a man is needed. A number of men who make use of the rooms have been able to get along without applying for relief by odd jobs, and for these men calls are especially helpful.

A large assortment of library books and magazines and gramophone records is being dispatched to the camps this week-end, and the secretary expressed appreciation to the donors for the library, to replace the 150 used books being sent out.

TREASURER'S REPORT

R. F. Taylor presented the financial statement showing expenditure during February, $197.25, with income of $197.25. The total balance on hand at the end of the month of $234.06. This is enough to cover the present month's expenses with no assurance of being able to meet payments during April.

The directors appeal to those who can lend in financial assistance, as the value of the institution to unemployed and homeless men, is daily demonstrated. The expenses average around $190 a month, which pays two supervisors in charge, rent and other expenses. Every dollar subscribed is administered with strictest economy, and for this small monthly sum a retreat from the streets is secured for several hundred men.

TITLE CHOSEN FOR SCHOOL

Prince of Wales Lends Name For Boys' Farming on Island

Word has been received by P. B. Fowler, chairman of the local committee, that the Prince of Wales has agreed to his name being used in connection with the school to be established on Vancouver Island under the Child Emigration Society plan of establishing farm schools throughout the British Empire.

The school to be established on Vancouver Island will be known as the Prince of Wales Fairbridge School and will probably start with about 100 pupils. This number may be increased later.

Since the farm school plan was started in London a thousand children from England have been given opportunities to learn farming at schools in different parts of the empire. Six only have returned to England as failures. Three hundred of the pupils are in a school in New Australia. About seven hundred are at work in Australia.

DAWLEY TAKES JURY TRIAL

But Two Pettigrews, Arraigned With Him, Elect For Speedy Hearing

Clifford Dawley will go before a judge and jury at the criminal assizes next week to face charges in connection with the Dominion Theatre and Playhouse candy shop robbery of January 18.

Dawley was brought before Judge Lampman to-day and after the charges were read to him he elected the jury trial.

Arraigned with Dawley were Owen Pettigrew and Hugh Pettigrew. They were charged with the robbery of the store of W. E. Hobson, 1205 Esquimalt Road. A. J. Patton appeared as defence counsel for the Pettigrews, and said they wanted a speedy trial before a judge without a jury.

This means that they will come up before Judge Lampman and not before the criminal assizes next week.

Mr. Patton explained that another charge against them was being heard in the magistrate's court to-day and suggested that fixing of the date for the trial be left over. The judge agreed to this.

With Dawley now definitely on the list, this gives three for the assizes. Monday, Mrs. Ada Campbell, charged with breaking the relief office windows; K. H. Daniels, charged with unnatural immorality, and Dawley.

Handcuffed to each other, Dawley and the two Pettigrews were led out of the Court House under a guard of three Provincial Police, and taken back to the city jail in a police car.

Owen and Hugh Pettigrew were committed for trial by Magistrate Jay in the City Police Court this morning on a charge of breaking and entering the Playhouse Theatre, Yates Street, on the morning of January 18, when they investigated a series of break-ins of various premises in that vicinity. They were previously sent to a higher court on a charge of robbing a Esquimalt store.

Employees of the theatre identified two pairs of piles which were used in the projection booth, and which police testified were found in the rooming house of the Pettigrews.

Alan Riches, 2109 Vancouver Street, projectionist, owner of the tools, identified them by marks which had been placed there by himself and another person. He also identified a pair, William Penwick, 924 Queens Avenue, and Colin McDonald, 446 Linden Avenue, and Victor Henn, 178 Regent Avenue, who were other employees of the theatre staff, also identified the tools as those which they used daily.

MONEY TAKEN

Wallace Coutts, manager of the theatre, testified he arrived at the theatre on the morning of January 18 and found his office ransacked and the desk broken into. A quantity of petty cash and a money bag containing three five dollar bills, he said, were taken.

Kevin Sturrock, who was janitor at the theatre at the time of the alleged offence, testified he had found the remaining cash and the lower exit door forced open.

The funeral will be held at 10 o'clock to-morrow at St. Andrew's Cathedral. Interment took place in Ross Bay Cemetery.

Scottish Eleven May Play Here

There is a possibility the Scottish Football Association team that will visit Canada this summer may play Victoria, according to an announcement made to-day by Alderman James Adam, B.C. representative on the council of the Dominion Football Association.

It is planned to have a touring eleven play in the principal cities of Canada but Alderman Adam is attempting to have the visitors engage in three matches in this province at Vancouver, Nanaimo and Victoria.

The Scottish team will arrive at Montreal on May 15 and under present schedule will sail from New York on June 15.

Alderman Adam stated to-day that Victoria, Nanaimo and Vancouver, have always drawn the quota required in crowds for previous tour teams, and he felt the Scottish team should perform in all three cities.

CALL MEETING ON TAXATION

Convinced System Unfair, Real Estate Board to Extend Scope of Protests

Unanimous in the opinion that present methods of taxation are unfair to municipalities and destructive of land values, members of the Real Estate Board at luncheon in Spencer's dining-room to-day, voted to hold a general meeting two weeks hence at which city representatives of the Legislature, representatives of property owners, real estate men and members of the board would further discuss the taxation question.

At that meeting they hope to make plans for a campaign to remedy existing conditions.

It was like throwing old straw to talk over the question of taxation on land, James Forman commented as he opened an address on the subject.

Mr. Forman paid a tribute to Hon. John Hart, Minister of Finance, for his courage in stepping into the breach, to Byron Johnson for his outspoken comment, to Herbert Ansell and to Mayor O. G. McGeer for the expression of their views.

In face of double income taxation, the men with higher incomes were almost deprived of their earnings, he said.

The bondholder—the so-called usurer—was not entirely to blame for conditions, he declared.

Mr. Forman referred to the province in a condition in 1910, when it had a surplus.

GROWTH OF DEBT

Then came the P.E.I., which had cost to the present $75,000,000. Briefly Mr. Forman traced the growth of the province's debt to its present sum of $175,000,000.

He turned to the existing legislative system, stating it was fine ideal men were in office. Otherwise, it was deplorable.

AGAINST A DRIVE

Mr. Forman, criticized a newspaper editorial urging a sales campaign for reverted lots. Such a drive was impossible owing to the high taxation on reverted lots.

He quoted from another newspaper editorial supporting the municipalities.

Dismissing the municipalities as the victims of a skin game, Mr. Forman said, "Five years ago," he continued, "Victoria appeared on the way to a perpetual 35-mill rate. Now we are at 40 mills. The rate is based on all requirements, and we have to raise the rate to 65 mills," he said.

As remedies, he suggested restoration of municipal grants.

ALWAYS PAYING

He reviewed the condition of Vancouver Island which had furnished the establishment of a Vancouver Island special county, revenue producing and revenue spending.

Speaking of Vancouver, he declared that city to be in a similar condition to Victoria.

Exemption of taxation on homes up to $1,500 in value, to place them on a similar basis as farms in unorganized districts, had been suggested.

From London, and spent some time in which the Harper and Kidd reports had been ignored.

Unless some action were taken the country would see Communism, the C.P. and other forms of revolt taking place, Mr. Forman said.

BUSINESS NOW DEMANDS MOVE

Charles Anstie Tells Shell Oil Representative Company Will Advance

Returning from a sales conference at Vancouver, J. L. Bartram, local manager of the Shell Oil Company, was full of enthusiasm regarding the company's plans for the year.

The meeting was presided over by Charles E. Anstie, vice-president of the Shell Oil Company of British Columbia Limited. The keynote of the address by Mr. Anstie was the announcement of a most aggressive and extensive sales promotion and advertising programme. "We are convinced business conditions warrant a most active campaign," Mr. Anstie said.

A banquet at the Vancouver Hotel, a gala affair, concluded the day's business.

NEW INDUSTRY FOR CANADA

P. N. Soden, of Pearson's Antiseptic Plant Opened in Montreal, Here

One of Canada's newest industries is represented in Victoria to-day by Percy N. Soden, general manager of Pearson's Antiseptic Company of Canada, Montreal.

The plant at Lachine, Quebec, was completed at a cost of $175,000 and opened last November. It has a maximum capacity of 1,500,000 gallons annually and is devoted exclusively to the manufacture of disinfectants.

The firm of Pearson's Antiseptic Company of Hull and London, England, last year imported into Canada 1,200,000 gallons of its products, but with the opening of the Montreal plant the entire domestic consumption will be manufactured in Canada.

Said Mr. Soden at the Empire Hotel this morning, "Running at full capacity the Montreal plant will employ two hundred men."

The Canadian plant, said Mr. Soden, is the eighteenth controlled by Pearson's in various parts of the world, the nineteenth now being under construction in Brazil. A state monopoly is held by the company in Italy, Spain and Belgium.

The products manufactured by this company are creolin, sal-hycol, hycol, pacol, soil insecticide, weed-killer, liquid soap and a number of fine pharmaceutical products.

SHOWS CONFIDENCE

The building of the Montreal plant shows the confidence of the British manufacturers in the future of Canada as a market for their materials, he said. Construction was decided upon after a survey of the Dominion as to its consumption of disinfectants.

V. G. Gilha, general manager of Pearson's Antiseptic Company, came out from the factory and gave a tour of the country making his own personal investigations and decided upon Montreal as the most desirable site.

SUGGEST LOG EXPORT TAX

Plans to Keep Manufacturing Business in Province Studied by Committee

Further study of plans to halt the export of raw logs from British Columbia and encourage shipments of manufactured lumber will be given by the forestry committee of the B.C. Legislature, it was learned this morning.

Suggestion was made yesterday that a complete ban should be placed on these exports, which have increased enormously during the depression. Another proposal which will be studied is a substantial tax against log exports.

Real estate men and property owners of the city.

James Bennell spoke in favor of the proposed new educational finance survey. It was attacked by C. E. French.

HAS MESSAGE FROM NORTH

W. J. Asselstine, M.P.P. For Atlin, Addresses Victoria West Liberal Club

An inspiring address on the possibilities of northern British Columbia was given to members of the Victoria West Liberal Social Club yesterday evening by W. J. Asselstine, M.P.P. for Atlin.

The speaker dealt especially with the opening for youth to be found in a land with great mining potentialities.

Mr. Asselstine quoted examples of young men who had gone into the north and worked. They were the living refutation, he said, of the sometimes-heard assertion that the youth of to-day was scared of hard work.

He cited especially the example of three young men who every year saved up their money and flew into the north for the summer, surveying and prospecting. They carried their own assay equipment with them.

TRIBUTE TO MCGEE

Mr. Asselstine paid tribute to Mayor O. G. McGeer of Vancouver who, he believed, was doing his utmost to carry out the pledges which he had given to the people.

Mr. Asselstine praised the work of the club, stating that it was a valuable asset to the Victoria Liberal Association.

A strong tribute to the abilities of Mr. Asselstine and his work in the north was paid by W. J. Rennie, who also congratulated the club on its work. Mr. Rennie made a donation of $20 to the club's funds.

Gunners Confident For Title Rugby Clash To-morrow

Locals Prepared To Turn In Best Game of Season

Will Face Tough Opposition in Fleet and Powerful Vancouver Squad

MATCH STARTS AT 3 O'CLOCK

A confident but not cocky squad of Fifth Brigade ruggers rested on the eve of battle to-day, prepared to turn in their best performance of the year to-morrow when they stack up against North Shore All-Blacks in the Rounsefell Cup final for the British Columbia club rugby championship at MacDonald Park.

The game will start at 3 o'clock with Aubrey Walls handling the whistle.

Inability of Lee Gray to respond to treatment on his injured ankle and shoulder will necessitate the entry of Bill Wharton, a former Fifth Brigade man, in the line-up as hook in the scrum.

Wharton has long been regarded as one of the cleverest men for the job not only in British Columbia but all Canada.

The Victorians will be up against a powerful and fleet fifteen when they take the field against the All-Blacks. The North Shore boys, schooled by Tommy Rounsefell, former All-Blacks, have always been a drawing card here and should prove no exception to the rule when they trot out against the Gunners.

CLOSE GAME

In their title engagement in Vancouver last year, the Victorians dropped a 13 to 11 verdict to the clever All-Blacks. To-morrow, they hope to reverse the decision and bring another trophy to roost in the city.

The locals have been after the Rounsefell Cup for several years and appear to have one of the best chances they have ever boasted this season. The team is working smoothly and has mastered several sound plays that should stand them in good stead.

Although advance reports on ticket sale were not available to-day, it was believed one of the largest crowds that has seen a rugby game this year would be on hand to cheer the locals along in their challenge for the prized cup.

In the mixed play Mrs. Foote also started weakly dropping the opener 8-15 and then rallied to beat Miss G. Stagg and Miss Ethel Saunders 15-4 and 15-3 for the women's laurels.

Mrs. Patrick and Birch Gain Semis

British Columbia Badminton Stars Show Brilliant Form in Canadian Championships; Leney Drops Hard Match; Seeded Players Dominate

Ottawa, March 8.—First champions to meet defeat in the 1935 Canadian badminton championships which opened here yesterday morning, Mrs. Anna Kier Patrick and R. E. ("Dick") Birch, Vancouver, were dethroned as mixed doubles titleholders just before midnight by Mrs. James Barr and Leonard Schlemm, strong Montreal pair, in the quarter-finals.

Mrs. Barr, a former Scottish internationalist in badminton, tennis and golf, played as if inspired, while Schlemm, a former Canadian champion, showed the quality of the 1934 titleholders into error and defeat. The Montreal pair, who hold the Montreal city and district and province of Quebec titles, earned the right to meet Margaret Robertson, Ottawa, and George Goodwin, Camp Borden, Ont., in one semi-final to-day.

In the other, Mrs. Bruce Ross and A. O. Jones, Winnipeg, will play Ruth Robertson and Bev. Mitchell, Ottawa.

NEEDED STARS WIN

All four of the women chosen by the committee as the top flight in the tournament came through three rounds at the "Badminton Club of Ottawa." Of the four seeded men, only Leonard Schlemm, Montreal, province of Quebec champion, fell by the wayside.

Mrs. Anna Kier Patrick, Vancouver, was conceded a good chance of defending her crown successfully after a brilliant showing throughout the day. She will meet Mrs. W. R. Walton Jr. of Toronto, in one semi-final. In the other, Ruth Robertson, Ottawa, will face Margaret Taylor, Kelowna. Mrs. Patrick is seeded one, Miss Robertson two, Mrs. Walton three and Mrs. Taylor four.

Severely Mitchell, Ottawa, finalist to Doug Grant, Halifax, last year, will play Jack Belcher, Ottawa, in one men's semi-final, while Rod Phelan, Toronto, and Dick Birch, Vancouver, will clash in the other.

Belcher was the man who scored yesterday's biggest upset, knocking out Schlemm. Belcher had not been seeded in the first eight. Birch is seeded second, Phelan third and Schlemm was fourth.

Yesterday evening the large mixed doubles field was being reduced to the semi-finals, while this morning and afternoon the men's and women's doubles were to be run off, with all semi-finals to-night and the finals to-morrow.

Mitchell was given a fine battle by Jim Forsyth, Winnipeg, in their quarter-final match. Scores were 15-12, 15-13, 15-15.

GREAT BATTLE

Belcher took the first game of his quarter-final match from Eric Laneve, Dunsmuir, dropped the second, and rallied in the third at 13-16. Belcher then scored four straight points, and with the advantage of service appeared headed for immediate victory. But the British Columbian secured service after a fault and tied the count at 17-17.

From this point both players fought every inch of the way. Leney dropped a shot outside the chalk mark to give the Ottawa player a win at 18-17.

Phelan was in rare form to knock out the veteran C. L. Jones, Winnipeg, in straight games, 15-8, 15-4.

Only one of the women's quarter-final matches went the limit of three games, Mrs. G. O. Pitt, Winnipeg, extending Mrs. Walton by winning the first game at 15-14. After a close 11-9 victory in the second game, Mrs. Walton was in control of the third for an 11-4 win.

B.C. GIRLS GOOD

Mrs. Patrick overshadowed Betty Oakes, Toronto, for an 11-4, 11-4 win, while Miss Taylor defeated Miss Elizabeth Kennedy, Montreal, 15-11, 11-8, and Miss Robertson won from Mrs. R. M. Hughes, Winnipeg, 11-9, 11-8.

Miss Oakes' win in second round this morning was the first upset of the tournament.
